NEW TARIFF LAW STRIKES A SNAG

Reductions to American Ships May Cause International Complications

TREASURY DEPARTMENT AT SEA

Question Will Go to President, the Attorney General and Likely to the Supreme Court—Departments Consult.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Officials of the Treasury Department are at sea to know what Congress actually meant by the provision of the tariff law allowing a 5 per cent reduction of duties on goods imported in American ships with the condition that the differential should not be construed to abrogate or impair any existing treaty between the United States and a foreign nation. Literally interpreted, it is declared the provision would give a 5 per cent decrease to goods in American bottoms and automatically grant the same privilege to the ships of the many nations whose treaties with the United States guarantee no discrimination between their vessels and those of America. This construction, which would be a horizontal reduction of 5 per cent in the tariff for importation from most of the great countries of the world, involves probably ten millions in revenue for the government creating a deficit instead of a surplus in the treasury as has been estimated by the tariff framers.

The question undoubtedly will be referred to President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds and ultimately will reach the United States Supreme Court.

In Consultation.

The State and Treasury Departments already are in consultation over the effect of the provision, the first snag struck in the new law.

Whatever the interpretation of the provision for nations with these guarantees of equality it is pointed out other serious questions arise as to 23 nations whose treaties with this country do not guarantee against discrimination. Countries which thus will be charged the full Underwood duties in any event are Brazil, Chile, China, Dominican Republican, Ecuador, France German Empire (except several German States), Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Persia, Peru, Portugal, Russia, Salvador, Siam, Switzerland, Turkey, Uruguay and Venezuela. The treaty with Great Britain does not guarantee equality of treatment for vessels of her colonies such as Canada and Australia.

Treasury officials today declared that the new act was the lowest tariff law in the history of the country with the possible exception of the Walker tariff of 1846 and its amendatory tariff of 1857.

It is roughly estimated that $100,000,000 worth of merchandise held in bond soon will be withdrawn and payment of duty made under the new law. Compared with the Payne-Aldrich act, this means a loss of $10,000,000 to the government. Treasury officials maintained that these withdrawals would have no perceptible effect upon the business of the country.

President Congratulated.

President Wilson went to the golf links early today, according to his Saturday custom, and when he returned to the White House shortly before noon found a pile of telegrams congratulating him on the signing of the new tariff bill. The messages came from Chambers of Commerce as well as political organizations from various parts of the country. Secretary Bryan today endorsed the new tariff law as the best tariff measure since the Civil War.

"It is a better bill than we were able to pass 20 years ago and I rejoice that political conditions are such as to make the present law possible," he said.

First Effects.

San Francisco, Oct. 4.—First effects of the new tariff law on the Pacific coast, it was agreed here today, will be felt in importations of food stuffs from Australia.

In San Francisco the release of great quantities of butter held in customs store houses was expected to affect the local market. Australian meats are selling at prices lower than those charged for domestic meats and the quantities imported are to be increased.

$70,000,000 in Merchandise.

New York, Oct. 4.—The first effect of the new tariff to which President Wilson's name was written last night, was seen here today when the clerical force at the customs house was increased by 15 men. Customs officials began business an hour earlier than usual to take care of the flood of applications for release of the great store of imports that had accumulated in bonded warehouses awaiting the tariff cuts.

In the 48 bonded warehouses there is more than $70,000,000 worth of goods awaiting withdrawal.

Lower Price on Steel.

Steel manufacturers today were reported here to be considering a reduction of from $2 to $3 a ton in the price of British products to meet the lowering of steel duties in effect today under the new tariff schedules. Possible competition from German and British manufacturers was said to be reported for the government.

Lumber Accumulating.

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 4.—The steamer Ogemaw from Canada, with a cargo of lumber, reached here today after remaining at anchor for two days in Saginaw Bay waiting for the new tariff law to go into effect. Owners of the steamer and cargo estimated that the move saved $600. Capt. Pierce, master of the vessel, said thousands of dollars worth of lumber has accumulated in Canadian ports which soon will find markets in the United States.

SULZER WANTS TO TELL EVERYTHING

If Not on the Stand He Will Give It to Newspapers

MAY NOT BE CROSS-EXAMINED

Declares People Have Right to Know What He Knows Concerning Political Rottenness in New York State.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4.—A plan for getting his whole story before the public and at the same time escaping cross-examination was said to have been perfected tonight by Governor Sulzer. It generally was reported that if his attorneys continued to insist on his curtailnig his sworn statement he would obey their demands but give the complete narrative to the country through the newspapers. He will give out the statement on taking the witness stand, it was reported.

One thing the Governor has maintained is that the people are entitled to know everything that he knows about the inner workings of political organizations in the State. His attorneys have pointed out repeatedly that if he lets his anxiety for divulging information carry him too far, he will open the way for severe cross-examination of counsel for the board of managers.

The asserted eagerness of the attorneys for the board of managers to have the Governor take the stand has made his attorneys somewhat chary about his "telling everything." Counsel for the board made no secret of their hopes that the testimony for Sulzer will open the way for the introduction of much new evidence which they cannot introduce if he fails to testify or only denies briefly stories told by witnesses for the managers last week.

TO BE RE-EXAMINED.

Hans Schmidt Goes Before Noted New Haven Alienist.

New York, Oct. 4.—The authorities in charge of the prosecution of Hans Schmidt, who dismembered the body of Anna Aumuller and threw the parts into the Hudson river, announced tonight the next step in the case following the formal verdict of the coroner's jury yesterday that Schmidt was responsible for the woman's death.

Dr. Dieffenderf, alienist of New Haven, Conn., will examine Schmidt on Tuesday and will make a report as to his sanity to the alienists who already have tested the priest's mind. On Wednesday the doctors will place their report in the hands of District Attorney Whitman.

If Schmidt eventually is found legally insane, he will be taken to the Matteawan State hospital for the criminal insane. If the report finds the priest mentally sound the case will go to the grand jury probably Friday. The trial, if one is held, probably will be deferred until November.

VOLUNTARY PRISONER.

Was Guilty of Insubordination and Confined.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Thomas Mott Osborne, chairman of the State Commission of prison reform, who for a week has been serving a voluntary sentence in Auburn prison, has been placed in confinement for insubordination, according to reports current here today. As Warden Rattigan is out of town and his assistants declined to discuss the matter, details were unavailable.

Mr. Osborne took up his voluntary service as a prison inmate to study psychological effect on prisoners of their life behind the bars. He said when he began his term that he would submit to all regulations and would expect to be punished for any violations.

Farmers Swamp The Sailor Lads

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 4.—A. and M. opened the season on the local gridiron by swamping the U. S. S. Franklin, 54 to 0. The game was characterized by much rough playing and poor refereeing, the Techs being penalized eight times for offside and Franklin once and the frequent rough playing of the Franklin was never noticed. Franklin kicked off first touchdown, which was the only scoring in the first quarter. The Techs added two more in the second, three in the third and two in the fourth quarters, Hurtt kicking six goals.

Nearly every member of the A. and M. squad had a chance to work out, and the whole team did good work, one of the features being the team work and good interference by the Red and White. The Franklin team made only three first downs, two of these being on forward passes.

A. and M. tried the forward pass five times and was successful twice.

The features of the game were the Techs' interference and the playing of Riddick, Tenney, Sullivan and Vanbroklin, for A. and M., and Gavin, for Franklin. Twice Riddick recovered an attempted forward pass from the Sailors and ran thirty-five and fifty yards, respectively, for touchdowns.

Referee, Thomas, of U. N. C.; umpire, Simpson; head linesman, McNutt, of Ohio State. Time of quarters, ten and twelve minutes. Attendance, 2,500.

Young Herman Oelrichs. Jr., Escapes the Law.

New York, Oct. 4.—Hermann Oelrichs, Jr., millionaire law student at Columbia University, was discharged in police court today when arraigned on the charge of stabbing Lucille Singleton, daughter of a Texas mine owner. The case against young Oelrichs was dismissed at the request of Assistant District Attorney James O'Mally, to whom Miss Singleton confessed yesterday that there was no basis for her previous declaration that Oelrichs had stabbed her.

Miss Singleton was not in court today. She still is confined to her room as the result of injuries sustained in the accident several nights ago to the automobile in which she was riding with Oelrichs. The young millionaire, centre of group shown in picture, was in court today with his attorneys, shown left to right, Lawyer Strong and Lawyer Taylor, who heard the statement in which the young woman admitted she was thrown through the windshield when the car struck a tree along upper Broadway where they were riding. Young Oelrichs' mother, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Sr., New York's most powerful social arbiter, pledged a million dollars security to secure the release of her son when he was first arrested for the escapade.

FLOODS STILL ARE RAGING

One Life is Lost in Louisiana—Cameron Parish is Entirely Submerged—More Rains Make Conditions Serious.

Lake Charles, La., Oct. 4.—Cameron Parish, now the center of the flood in the Calcasieu river, is reported tonight to be entirely submerged except for a ridge which parallels the Gulf of Mexico. The damage it is believed, will be confined to loss of crops as the territory is flat. Inhabitants fear only a strong southeast wind, which would bank the water of the sea against that of the flood.

The first drowning in the vicinity of Lake Charles during the high water was reported today. Elmer Rice, 19 years of age, was seized with cramps while swimming and sank to his death.

Calcasieu Lake and river in the territory immediately tributary to Lake Charles, slowly is receding today.

Houston, Texas, Oct. 4.—Rain again has fallen throughout the Texas coast sections, checking the fall of many streams and continuing the period of disordered railway schedules. In the southeast portion of Texas conditions continue to improve in spite of the additional rain, but the situation again is serious in the southwestern section. Many thousands of acres of farm lands are inundated.

FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT FIGHT.

Trying to Prove "Grandfather Clause" In Oklahoma Unconstitutional.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The Federal government's effort to prove that "the grandfather clause" of the Oklahomam Constitution violates the Constitution of the United States, was begun in the Supreme Court with the filing of a brief by Solicitor General Davis.

The Circuit Court of Appeals has certified to the Supreme Court the question of the validity of the amendment to the Oklahoma Constitution.

The solicitor contends that the entire provision is unconstitutional because it violates the 15th amendment to the Federal Constitution guaranteeing suffrage without discrimination as to race, color or previous condition of servitude. The effect of the "grandfather clause," he adds, is to exclude virtually all illiterate negroes and almost all illiterate white men.

Earthquakes In The Torrid Zone

Panama, Oct. 4.—Another earthquake occurred on the Isthmus at 5:06 o'clock this afternoon. It almost was equal in intensity to the shock Wednesday night. Buildings were shaken severely, but apparently small damage was done.

Reports from the canal zone officials indicate that neither the locks nor any part of the canal suffered.

Colon, Oct. 4.—An earth shock was felt at Colon this afternoon. The disturbance was not nearly as sharp as that Wednesday night. The canal officials at Gatun report no damage to the canal. Many residents sought safety in the streets.

Naples, Oct. 4.—A strong earthquake shock occurred here at 7:20 this evening. It lasted 30 seconds and was followed by another shock at 7:30. Both caused panic, though the damage was insignificant.

Shocks also were felt in the nearby provinces, particularly Avellino, where the inhabitants abandoned their houses. In the province of Foggia many of the villagers are camping in the fields.

OUTLINES

Representative Oscar Underwood yesterday formally announced his candidacy for the United States Senate from Alabama to succeed the late Joseph F. Johnson.

It was discovered by the Treasury Department that the new tariff law may cause international complications because of the 5 per cent reduction given to American ships.

The Mexican town of Santa Rosalia has fallen before the attack of 4,000 Federal troops under Gen. Castro. The fighting was heavy and 700 are reported dead.

WILSON'S CAR STRIKES BOY

Messenger Boy on Wheel Smashes Into President's Automobile—Not Seriously Hurt—Will Buy New "Bike."

Washington, Oct. 4.—While President Wilson was motoring through the southeastern part of the city early tonight, returning to the White House from a long ride through Maryland, his automobile struck Robert Crawford, a 15-year-old messenger boy, slightly bruising him about the knees.

Young Crawford immediately was taken to a hospital by Dr. Carey T. Grayson, the President's physician, who was in the car. An examination showed the boy's injuries were trifling.

The boy was riding a bicycle and trying to dodge stones thrown by another youngster when suddenly he swerved directly in front of the President's car as it rounded a corner. The chauffeur stopped the car with a jerk before the wheels could pass over the boy. The President who was riding in the front seat with the chauffeur, was at the boy's side in an instant lifting him from under the hood while the secret service men disentangled the demolished bicycle from under the automobile. Crawford's principal solicitation was his wheel.

"My wheel, my wheel," he whimpered, "I'll have to carry the message now."

The President promptly assured him that he would buy him "a nice new wheel," and directed Dr. Grayson to attend him constantly. The boy was taken to a hospital at which his mother is employed.

PAGE INTERVIEWED.

All Rome Papers Carry Stories of the New Ambassador.

Rome, Oct. 4.—All the Rome newspapers published interviews with Thomas Nelson Page, the new American Ambassador to Italy.

After telling of his admiration for Italy and of his wish to know the Italian people, the ambassador had this to say of President Wilson's foreign policy:

"The President has an open and luminous mind and is inspired by broad political criterions. He repeatedly has expressed his desire that the United States should preserve a peaceful attitude towards all peoples, particularly those participating in her industrial and commercial development and having with her common bonds of friendship and interests.

"President Wilson's enlightened intelligence and solid political preparation will maintain the prestige of the United States among the nations."

Berlin, Oct. 4.—The retiring American ambassador, John G. A. Leishman, ended 16 years diplomatic service today and transferred the embassy to the secretary, Joseph C. Grew. He left tonight for Paris. He will return to the United States probably by the end of November.

Paris, Oct. 4.—The French government has appointed Capt. DeBertier de Sauvigny, military attache to the embassy at Washington and to Mexico.

FIERCE FIGHTING AT SANTA ROSALIA

Eight Thousand Soldiers Participate in Four Hour Engagement!

GENERAL CASTRO THE VICTOR

700 Killed and Wounded—Heated Battle at Sinaloa Where Rebels Make Small Gain—Shelling Does Damage.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 4.—Santa Rosalia has fallen before the attack of 4,000 Federals under Gen. Castro, according to advices received here today. The town was defended by 4,000 Constitutionalists under Gen. Francisco Villa.

A dispatch said the town was taken after four hours' heavy fighting yesterday afternoon, following a siege which started Thursday morning.

Meagre details tend to show that the battle was a desperate one. Gen. Salzer, of the Federals, in a private telegram to friends at Juarez, placed his estimate of the total number of dead at 700. The casualties were mostly on the rebel side. The loss of life among non-combatants in the town resulting from the Federal artillery fire, he said, was enormous.

The principal buildings and most of the residences of the town were ruined. The mission, one of the most costly buildings there, was badly damaged.

Gen. Castro has not made his report on the engagement and aside from his message announcing the Federal victory, has not given the Juarez officials any news concerning the battle.

Fighting at Sinaloa.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 4.—Constitutionalists and Federals clashed in an all day battle at the city of Sinaloa today, according to tonight's rebel advices, which asserted that the insurgents had the advantage, although the fighting still was in progress.

The number of Federals engaged in the battle is not known. The Constitutionalists were said to total 2,000.

Two Federal gunboats in Guaymas harbor are said to have been ordered south with troops to reinforce the Sinaloa garrison.

EPISCOPALS MEET.

High Church Adherents Want Name of Denomination Changed.

New York, Oct. 4.—The next three weeks will witness the making of Ecclesiastical history here by the Triennial General Convention of the Episcopal Church. Beginning Wednesday, October 8th, 116 bishops, 305 clerical and 305 lay delegates will meet at the Cathedral of St. John The Divine to hold daily sessions until October 24th. They will discuss amendments to the church constitution and their debates will bring to a head questions that have been agitating the church for many years.

No provision has been made for presenting to the convention the question of changing the corporate name of the denomination. Churchmen and laymen of high church tendencies have contended that the present name —"The Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America and its Tributaries Beyond the Seas"—is cumbersome and not properly descriptive. They suggest the name "American Catholic Church."

The convention will receive reports favoring a change in the method of representation in the House of Deputies. It is proposed to leave the total number of delegates unchanged, but to re-aportion the voting strength so that instead of each delegate having one vote, voting power shall be based on a fractional system depending on the number of communicants in each diocese. The dioceses of Washington, Southern Virginia and Maryland lead the movement.

A committee that has investigated a pension system will recommend that at the age of 65 clergymen may retire and receive thereafter one-half of their average salary from the time they entered the church service.

Beautiful Child Basely Murdered

New York, Oct. 4.—Mystery surrounding the murder of a golden-haired child of three years yesterday, began to clear today with the identification of the body, the arrest of the baby's mother and the sounding of a general police alarm for the apprehension of the man from whose flat the body was taken late yesterday afternoon. The child was identified as Lulu Salero by Mrs. Louise Roeber, who said she was the child's grandmother. Mrs. Roeber told the police that her daughter, Lulu's mother, had quarreled with her husband, Michael Salero, and left him a year ago to live with another man. Lulu, she said, was taken by Mrs. Salero when the home was broken up.

Mrs. Salero last left her mother's home, according to the mother, a month ago with two men. One of them, Mrs. Roeber said, was Tony Fishera, over whom Mrs. Salero and her husband had quarreled; the other was Joseph DePuma. DePuma and Fishera, Mrs. Roeber said, occupied the same flat. It was from this flat that the child's body was taken to the morgue. A general alarm has been issued for DePuma's arrest.

The child's body was brought to the morgue in a box last night by Ralph Pasqua, an undertaker, who told a terrified tale of having been coerced at the point of the pistol to go to a flat and remove the body. In the flat he saw a blonde woman weeping. When detectives reached the flat later she was gone and with her the gunmen.

TAX AMENDMENTS IN LEGISLATURE

House Votes for the Levy to Remain as at Present Made.

A GETTYSBURG MEMORIAL

Safety Appliances to be Required on Railroads—Poll Tax Provision Debated—Other Proceedings Yesterday.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 4.—The House today, in committee of the whole on proposed constitutional amendments, voted favorably on an amendment by Mr. Doughton to the taxation proposed to make the tax levy for all purposes 66 2-3 cents, as at present, instead of 50 cents as proposed by the Commission. The vote was 47 to 7.

Another important action was adoption of a resolution by Mr. Graham to authorize the erection at Gettysburg of a memorial to commemorate the gallantry and valor of North Carolina troops on that famous battlefield.

A new bill was introduced by Dowd to amend the law as to safety appliances on railroads in the State so that standard appliances must be used in all cases.

Wooten introduced a bill a provide for appropriation for completing buildings at the school for the Feeble Minded and for maintenance, the aggregate being $62,000.

Bills passed to authorize Jacksonville and Onslow townships in Onslow county to vote bonds for Goldsboro, Seven Springs & Swansboro railroad; also, to authorize Pink Hill township, Lenoir county, to issue bonds for same purpose.

Section 6, the poll tax provision, was generally discussed and finally referred to the committee on Constitutional amendments, together with Section 1. The sentiment seemed overwhelming that cities and towns should be allowed to levy a poll for street and other improvements, and the question was as to the amount. The commission had suggested that only $2 should be allowed for all purposes and that for the State, but there was objections. Messrs. Dowd, Majette and Roberts attacked the section vigorously against the contentions of Representative Page and Justice that a poll tax ought not to be levied at all. The House adjourned until 11 o'clock Monday.

Senator Ward introduced in the Senate the bill from the special committee for the State School for Feeble Minded at Kinston. It carries appropriations of $19,891.17 for present indebtedness; $24,508 to finish and equip the plant, and $24,535 for 1914 maintenance. It also authorizes the trustees to open the school without observing the order of particular classes of inmates set out in the statute creating the school, directs the trustees and superintendent to confine their expenditures to the appropriations made.

Senator Pharr introduced a joint resolution for the compensation of the chief clerks of the General Assembly for the special session. Among bills passed final reading were: Amend Pamlico road law; provide special assessment to improve sidewalks in Fairmont; amend road bond act for Sampson; amend Jones road law; incorporate Norman, Richmond county; amend act of 1913 as to holding courts in the Fifth Judicial district; amend the 1911 road law for Beaufort county.

Senator Wakefield announced to the Senate the death of Sergeant-at-Arms W. G. Hall, which occurred in Fayetteville this morning at 5 o'clock, he had been taken to Fayetteville after he fell ill in the discharge of his official duties a few days after the special session convened. Senator Pharr, from the chair, expressed the deep sorrow of the Senators at the announcement and recognized Senator Nimmocks, who moved that a committee of three be appointed to draft suitable resolutions for adoption by the Senate. The motion was adopted and the chair named Senators Nimmocks, Wakefield and Marshburn to prepare the resolutions. The Senate adjourned to noon Monday.

BREWERS ADJOURN.

Will Fight Prohibition—Advocate Women in Public Life.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 4.—The United States Brewers' Association today adjourned its 53rd annual convention to meet next year in New Orleans. The organization declared itself favorable to granting more political power to women. It praised women's work in wiping out disorderly houses which it was asserted, was a benefit to municipalities as well as to the brewery interests.

Concentration of the organization to meet the attacks of prohibitionists was declared to be one of the policies of the new officers.

TROUBLE FEARED.

Three Prisoners Hastened to Other Jail to Avoid Lynching.

Abbeville, Ga., Oct. 4.—Trouble here tonight was feared when a crowd began to form, after James Coleman and W. P. Stevens were convicted of the murder of Leon Melvin, Judge George today ordered the two men and Coleman's father convicted of the same crime Thursday, removed to another jail. The three were taken in an automobile to Fitzgerald.

Life sentences have been passed upon the three men. The elder is reputed to be worth $50,000.

Colon, Oct. 4.—The massive walls of the Panama Railroad freight house, built in 1857, were cracked in several places as a result of the earthquake. A concrete building in the course of construction also was damaged.

WORLD SERIES RECORDS

Great Flag Has Flown in Ten States In 28 Years of Its Existence —Past Pennant Winners— Interesting Dope.

New York, Oct. 4.—Twenty-one times have the pennant winners of ccuntry fought for the world's championship on the diamond.

The world's series will pass its 29th birthday, however, with the forthcoming contest between the Giants and Athletics. It first came into being in New York in 1884, when Providence, winner of the National League pennant crossed bats with the victorious Metropolitans—New York's standard-bearers—of the old American Association. There were lapses in 1891 and 1893 and a big gap from 1898 to 1902, inclusive, and still another lapse in 1904 when no games were played, but from 1884 to the present, barring these intermissions, the post-season fight for the apex of the baseball world has been an established custom.

The flag has flown in ten States during this short generation. Once it strayed West of the Mississippi river and breezed from a flagstaff in the St. Louis park of the American Association. This was in 1886, 27 years ago. It stayed there but one season, came back to Detroit and never since has crossed the Father of Waters.

A flag without a home, it has floated over eleven cities. Providence, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, New York, Louisville, Boston, Cleveland, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia—all have sent forth, from time to time, clubs that have fought victorious battles for the trophy. One hundred and thirty-four games have stamped these teams in various years premier baseball players of the world in no uncertain brand. Nearly three-fourths of the games have gone to the winners, although of recent years the contests have been closer than they were in the babyhood of the fight.

Ninety-seven of the 134 games have been won by the teams which captured the flag. Thirty-seven have gone to the losers. Fifteen times a National League club has won the flag; once the old American Association captured it; five times it has floated over an American League park. In fact, the American League clubs have been its keeper five times out of nine years in which the American and National League clubs have played for it. For the past three years it has breezed over an American League park.

First winners of the world championship were the Providence team, which defeated New York three straight games. The next year, 1885, the flag went to Chicago. Chicago and St. Louis fought again for the championship in 1887 and this time St. Louis triumphed. Detroit captured the flag in 1887. In 1888 it came to New York for a two-year stay. Louisville got it in 1890. Boston in 1892 and New York again in 1894. In 1895 Cleveland won it in a contest from Baltimore, but the next year the old Baltimore Orioles took it away from Cleveland to keep it for two years. The Boston Americans took it in 1903, first year of the post-season fight between National and American League pennant winners. New York regained it in 1905. The Chicago Nationals and Americans fought for it in 1906 and the White Sox won it. In 1907 and 1908 the Chicago Nationals won it easily from Detroit. Pittsburgh took her place on the championship map in 1909, the Detroit team being defeated for the third consecutive time in the world's series games. For two years thereafter the Philadelphia Athletics captured it. Last year it went to the Boston Americans.

Six of the eleven cities—Providence, St. Louis, Detroit, Louisville, Cleveland and Pittsburgh — have been world's champions but one season. Two, Baltimore and Philadelphia, have been champions twice, Baltimore in 1896 and 1897 and Philadelphia in 1910 and 1911. Three times the flag has floated over a Boston park, in 1892, 1903 and 1913. New York and Chicago have each had it four times, the former in 1888, 1889, 1894 and 1905; the latter in 1885, 1906, 1907 and 1908.

NINETEEN MACKMEN LOST FINALE TO N. Y. YANKEES

Mack Tried Out Two Complete Teams in Yesterday's Closing Game.

SENATORS TOOK FINALE

Cleveland and St. Louis Played a Double-Header—Detroit and Chicago Broke Even—The Yanigans Lost.

Philadelphia, Oct. 4—Manager Mack of the Philadelphia American League champions, put two sets of infielders and outfielders, two catchers and three of his young pitchers in against New York in the final laegue game here today, and lost the game 10 to 8. Philadelphia's regular fielders played for five innings and led by 6 to 3. In the sixth Manager Mack sent in a brand new team with the exception of Shawkey. In the eighth and ninth innings New York scored seven runs and landed the victory.

Senators Took Final.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The final curtain on the 1913 American League baseball season here was rung down today when Washington took the last game from the Boston Red Sox. The exhibition was a farce throughout, players of both teams indulging in comedy and giving their opponents an opportunity to fatten batting averages. Catchers and pitchers were turned into fielders, fielders taking turns in the box.

Naps.

Cleveland, Oct. 4.—Cleveland and St. Louis played a double-header today, Cleveland taking the first. The second was called on account of darkness at the end of the eighth inning, with the score 0 to 0. Neither team had any serious chance to score.

A Break.

Detroit, Oct. 4.—Chicago and Detroit split a double-header here today. The second game was called on account of darkness at the end of the sixth. Cobb played his final game of the season. High replaced him early in the contest and fielded brilliantly.

Chicago	100	010	030	5	9	4
Detroit	010	020	04x	7	12	2

Cicotte, White and Schalk; Dauss and Gibson and Stanage; time 1:55; umpires O'Loughlin and Ferguson.

Detroit	000	000	0	6	1

Washington, Oct. 4.—Georgetown inaugurated its football season here today by taking a one-sided game from Randolph-Macon by a score of 44 to 0. The visitors never had a chance against Georgetown's heavier and better trained football machine and the local backs repeatedly tore through Randolph-Macon's line as though it was so much paper. The day wass too warm for football.

Athletics May Win the Fourth

The first thought which assails us in connection with the box score of the fourth game in 1911 is about this—or very near it—if another week of rain cuts in as it did two years ago, we intend to have all the tools handy to push through the Dutch act on two hours' notice. One of these deep-sea occasions is enough for an ordinary lifetime, and frequently too much.

Same Keynote.

Examining minutely, almost microscopically, the assembled details of the fourth box score, we observe again that same factor which makes Mack's club the most dangerous in baseball for any one series. We refer here exclusively to the tremendous power of the batting eye.

In this game Matty had drawn a rest from Wednesday of one week to Tuesday of next—a matter of some six days. In that same period the Mackmen hadn't looked at a curve ball. Yet they picked up exactly where they left off, only with a louder and more sonorous outburst. In seven rounds they picked Matty for 10 lusty swats, embracing a matter of seven two-base hits.

Another Note.

This recalls another note; Matty's defeat was his second in the last two starts. The Big Gun of the Giant battery has now, after beating Bender at the start, failed to put through a win in his last five world series contests. He lost two to the Mackmen and two to the Red Sox with a tie.

Most of this was due to his Gus Hill support, but it is hardly probable that his string of misfortune can be hauled out much further. In other words he is due, in the psychology of the game, to win at his next appearance. We are speaking now of what he is due to do, not what he will do. When a pitcher of his intense calibre fails to show in a victory out of five attempts the law of chance is with him for the sixth start.

Bender Again.

They said once that Bender was a king for one game—but of no great use without a good rest. The wily Chief suddenly after a brief flutter—and two days later beat them again. Bender that season had worked in fewer games than he has this year. He told us some time ago that his arm felt better than it had felt in many campaigns. He had shown this on the mound all year—which means that if the series goes to seven games, the Indians will pitch three of them as

DAUBERT AND JOHNSON WIN THE AUTOS.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Jake Daubert, Brooklyn first baseman, in the National League, and Walter Johnson, Washington pitcher, in the American League, are winners of the automobiles offered to players performing the most valiant services for their teams in 1913. The players were selected by a vote of a committee of newspaper men.

Winners in 1911 were Cobb, Detroit, and Schulte, Chicago. Last year Speaker, of the Boston Americans, and Doyle, of the New York Nationals, won the cars.

MACKMEN CLOSE TRAINING

Connie's Tribe Prepared for Titanic Struggle of Coming Week—Baker and Collins May be Barred.

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—The Philadelphia Athletics, the new American League champions, virtually wound up their training for the world's series in the game with the New York Highlanders today. For the first time in the last three occasions that his team has won the championship, Manager Mack did not put his players through a severe course of preparation. In 1910 and 1911 the Athletics were driven hard in the week before the world's series by playing games with an all-star team of American League players.

An entirely different course was adopted by Mack this Fall. After the pennant was clinched on September 22nd, he started to ease up on his regulars. This week he gave all of his stars a lay-off and sent a team of youngsters and veterans to Washington. The regulars got back into the game Thursday. The game that day was cut short by rain afer four and one-half innings of play. On Friday it was cold and Mack used his best men in only the first game of a double-header. Today the stars were taken out after playing five innings.

Owing to the light work given the champions it has been impossible to get anything like a good line on their condition. Barring Orr, who broke a bone in his hand Friday, there are no serious injuries in the camp so far as is known. Unless something unforeseen occurs this will be the first world's series in which Mack will have his team intact. Coombs is the only member of the team who could have been depended on if in condi-

The World Series Round Up

Here we are at last—the end of the season, and the qualms of the world's series pulsing just a step beyond. It may sound sacreligious to say so, but in the case of the particular Sabbath at hand, Sunday is a "day of bets" instead of a "day of rest." An odd situation exists in the matter of odds on the two teams this year. In New York, where there is a preponderance of Giant sympathizers, as high as 8 to 5 has been quoted with the Giants as favorites, and in Philadelphia, where there are more fans wanting to take the Athletics' end, the Mackmen are rated as strong at 5 to 3. But in neutral ground the figures are more nearly even, with practically no favorite.

The Line-up.

Connie Mack and John McGraw, the rival managers, have decided the make-up of their batting order for the opening day game, and, unless they experience changes of minds, the teams will take the field thus:

Athletics.

Eddie Murray	Rightfield
"Rube" Oldring	Leftfield
Eddie Collins	Second Base
Frank Baker	Third Base
Jack McInnis	First Base
Amos Strunk	Centerfield
Jack Barry	Shortstop
Willie Schang	Catcher
Pitcher	(?)

Giants.

Fred Snodgrass	Centerfield
Larry Doyle	Second Base
Arthur Fletcher	Shortstop
George Burns	Rightfield
Jack Murray	Rightfield
"Chief" Meyers	Catcher
Fred Merkle	First Base
Pitcher	(?)

There is much speculation over who will be the opening day selections for mound duty. Neither leader will announce his choice definitely until time to begin play, but it is likely "Chief" Bender will represent Philadelphia on the firing line and that Christy Mathewson will dish them up for the New Yorkers. Bender has pitched the opening game of every world's series the Athletics have played in—against the Giants in 1905, the Cubs in 1910 and the Giants again in 1911. The Giants got three runs off him in 1905 and beat him because "Matty" allowed no runs. "Matty" beat him again in 1911 by 2 to 1, but the "Chief" beat the Cubs 4 to 1 in 1910. However, the main point is that Bender has pitched a good game every time he has started a world's clash, and, since he is in form now, is the logical starter again. "Matty," having won for the Giants on two occasions he started world's series, was shelved on opening day last year and Joe Wood, of the Red Sox, beat Tesreau. It looks as if McGraw should shift back to older precedent that proved so successful for him. However, he also will be following precedent if he opens with either Tesreau or Demaree. Last year Tesreau was a recruit to the big leagues. This year Demaree occupies a relative position and, if chosen, last year's precedent will be followed again. In other words, if any one of McGraw's Big Four, barring Marquard, starts the 1913 series, precedent will have been followed. A good wager is that the "umps" will announce "'Matty' vs. Bender" for the opening game.

Mack's .350 Batting Trio.

Glancing over the batting order of the Athletics, one finds these three names in succession—Collins, Baker and McInnis. Right there is where the Giant pitchers are expected to find their chief trouble. This whaling trio has averaged close to .350 all season at lambasting the leather. Collins and Baker made the most bother for the Giants in 1911, and both are regarded as improved players now, since they still are in the class of youngsters. And right on behind them is "Stuffy" McInnis, who slams the pill at practically the same rate. With these three leading the charge, the Athletics present a batting front that looms close to .300 for the entire array.

Giant Pitching Evens Up.

Opposed to this bunch of hitsmiths will be the great pitching staff of the Giants. Mathewson, Marquard, Tesreau and Demaree form one of the very best twirling corps in either league, if not the best, and it is upon the efficiency of their labors that the Giants owe practically all their success in this year's National League campaign. Great pitchers? Yes. But they are opposed to great batters. Nobody can tell what will be the outcome when such strong elements collide. Maybe neither will give way to the other very much and the hits may be about an average amoun. Maybe the great pitchers will foil the batters and hold their power to a minimum. Or maybe the great batters will everlastingly maul the horsehide, regardless of the excellence of the twirling.

Reversing the Argument.

Loking at the battle from the other side, we find entirely different conditions. The Giants, judging from their streaks both of good and bad work through the season, barely can be called a good batting team, if at all. And the Athletics' pitching staff has not appeared anything like wonderful, in fact, seems to grade on a par with the Giants' batting. Bender and Plank when right are stars, but there is an element of uncertainty as to what the latter will be abel to do this year. Carroll Brown, Bush, Shawkey, Houck, Pennock and Wyckoff are all youngsters. The first three may get a chance to appear but their ability under such pressure can be only guessed at. The fight, in its general analysis, seems to be star batting versus star pitching and fair batting versus fair pitching, with chances for a fairly even break.

Pitching Against Batting.

With the pitching-against-batting contest tight, the result will depend on other things—base running, fielding, general tactics and nerve. The Athletics have the edge in fielding beyond the shadow of a doubt; the Giants in base runnning. As to the other two, it remains to be seen which will prove the better.

The Chief Interest.

The noblest hurling veterans of them all will be watched with interest in this clash. Christy Mathewson is completing his 13th season in the big league; Plank his 12th. "Matty" is 33 years old, while Plank is 39. The "master of the fade-away" started his baseball career when six years younger than his southpaw rival for the crown of senility.

Hospital List.

Two members of each of the contending clubs have suffered slight injury in the last few weeks. At first they were considered serious, but it now seems as if they will enter the series in close to their best shape if not in prfect trim. First Baseman McInnis and Pitcher Carroll Brown, of the Athletics, and Second Baseman Doyle and Outfielder Snodgrass, of the Giants, are the near-cripples. The first two got twisted around one another in a play at first base a couple of weeks ago and wrenched their arms. McInnis has been playing the last few days, however, and Brown also is said to be in good shape again. Doyle was hurt by being thrown out of his auto when he steered it into a tree out on Long Island and wrenched his shoulder. Snodgrass got a slight "charley horse" in his right thigh from sprinting too hastily to first base in one of the Brooklyn games last week. It is probable, though, that all four will be at their usual form in the big event.

Charley Herzog.

Many New York fans will be indignant if McGraw starts Arthur Shafer at third base instead of Charley Herzog, who delivered the goods to a fare-you-well against the Red Sox. More than one baseball follower regards Herzog as among the best infielders in the game and Shafer as only a mediocre flashy but erratic player, whose chief thoughts are for the grandstand.

Spying Time.

The past week has been the big spying time for trusted members of the Giants and Athletics. Having cinched their pennant sooner than the Giants, the Mackmen were able to dispense with several wise heads for a longer period of time than their rivals, and as a result a little crew has been seated in the grandstand at every one of the closing games, all keeping their eyes open for any helpful tips and exchanging notes from time to time. On one day Harry Davis, Ira Thomas, Dan Murphy and Eddie Collins sat together and watched the Giants from seats behind the plate. Wilbert Robinson, George Wiltse, Christy Mathewson and Otis Crandall formed one party spying on the Athletics. This spying process is borrowed from football. For years big teams have sent men out to look over their principal rivals on the eve of important games.

* * *

Judging from the amount of spirit the Yale team has been showing in practice recently and also in its early games, John Harvard has his work cut out for him to hold onto the football laurels he gained last year by sweeping clean with all rivals. Howard Jones, the new head coach, has instilled an amount of snap into the big Blue eleven that has been lacking for several years. Every man keeps his mouth going, shouting to his fellows to "get in the game," or to "break 'em up there," and "here we go now," or "another one like that, fellers." Not only are they making a noise about energy but they are putting their precepts into practice. No matter how far out of a play a man may seem, he chases along at top speed to get as near the general location, of it as possible and be prepared for emergencies. That sort of spirit alone will not win a football game, but it will go a dog-gone good distance toward helping win one.

"Off agin, on agin, gone agin, Finnegan" must have been written with the Langford-Gunboat Smith fiasco in mind. First the bout was arranged, then it was announced that the boxing commission of New York would rescind its rule prohibiting whites and blacks mixing. One member of the commission double-crossed his working contemporary and the men he had promised that he would vote for rescinding the rule. Then the promoters of the bout obtained an opinion from the attorney general that rules discriminating against negroes are illegal. The bout was declared on again. Then the rival influence got busy and extracted an opinion that, though a negro cannot be prevented from boxing because of his race, the commission has power to prevent any bout that, in its opinion, will prove detrimental to the game. The commission decided such a bout was detrimental and it was "gone agin." Politics, oh politics!

Boston, Mass., Oct. 4—Briscoe Lord, former outfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics and more recently of the local National League club, will manage thhe Mobile club of the Southern Association next year. His unconditional release from Boston was announced today.

THE LEADING SWATTERS

The Ten Leading Big Stick Men in Each League for the Week Ending Last Thursday.

The American League shows Ty Cobb away in the lead for the season's batting honors, and he will end the season as the world's leading batter. A net gain of six points marked his week's work. Jackson dropped back a half dozen points, and is only one point above Hendrickson, of Boston, at two points ahead of Tris Speaker. Frank Baker gained four points for the week.

The National shows Earl Yingling tied with Ty Cobb at .390, while Jake Daubert, of Brooklyn, leads the league excepting Yingling and Walsh by nine points.

LUMBERTON DINGS OF WEEK

Court In Session—Bill Posters Get In Trouble — Building Improvements Under Way.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 4.—The two weeks' term of Superior Court is moving along quietly and no one would think of court being in session of they did not notice the judge on the streets passing to and fro. It is not thought now that more than half of next week will be required to finish up the business of the term.

Yesterday morning while the Howe's Great London Circus bill-posting car was waiting to be carried out on the Marion train four of the boys got into a game of craps and let the chief of police catch on. They were carried before Judge Rowland who fined each one $50 and costs, making a total of $216. Many people here think the punishment was too great, and truth is, it does look hard to hit the poor fellows so hard when they have to work so hard for it and some of them have others depending on them.

Another postoffice site inspector spent two or three days here this week going over the grounds trying to locate the best place that could be obtained for a government building. He did not talk much, and no one can say with certainty what his recommendations will be. He intimated very plainly that the town needed a hotel much worse than a postoffice building.

One of the advance men of the Mutt and Jeff Company who spent last Saturday in town, got pinched because he didn't know the difference in the sidewalk and street. He rode a wheel on the sidewalk which is against the town law, but when Judge Rowland learned that he was a stranger and did not know that he was violating the law, he remitted the fine, letting the defendant off with $2.95 costs.

Mr. H. M. McAllister, cashier of the First National Bank, after being confined at home for nearly two weeks with an attack of chills and fever, is again able to be at his desk in the bank, much to the delight of his many friends.

Rev. C. H. Durham, pastor of the First Baptist church, has returned from his vacation which was spent on a trip to the Pacific coast and through the far West, covering a distance of 11,600 miles. Mr. Durham says he had a very fine trip, which he enjoyed greatly. He will fill his regular appointments tomorrow morning and evening at his church.

Mutt and Jeff opened the theatrical season here last night, playing to the largest audience in the history of the house. The show was all that could be wished, not a dull moment throughout, the costumes as pretty as could be and not an act or word of any kind to offend anyone. Rowland, Fairmont, Parkton, St. Paul's and other towns were well represented. Many took standing room while others left because they could not get seats.

Superintendent Sentelle, of the graded school ,gave notice this week that beginning next Monday the former rules regarding school houses would be observed. Pupils will carry lunches and have short recess, but will not be allowed to go home for dinner as has been the rule since school opened. It was simply an experiment which has proven very unsatisfactory.

Supt. McNeill, of the Lumberton Cotton Oil and Ginning Company, stated yesterday that they were just about 150 bales behind what they were October 1st last year, which is considered a remarkably good showing when the late crop conditions are considered.

Mr. C. V. Brown, cashier of the Bank of Lumberton, on Thursday awarded to Contractor Jones the contract for the erection of an elegant residence to be built on North Elm street, just North of the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Proctor. If Lumberton was building up all around as rapidly as that section it would soon be a city sure enough.

Mr. C. B. Redmond has opened an up-to-date oyster saloon in his big store on Fourth street, where he is prepared to serve ladies as well as gentlemen. Mr. Redmond now has more room and is better equipped in every way for serving his many customers than ever before.

Workmen are now busily engaged remodeling the second floor of the Carlyle building on Fifth street, the first floor of which is occupied by the Freeman Printing Company, to be used as a photograph studio by Miss Lillian Ferguson and Mr. W. B. Gragg. Miss Ferguson has been here for some time and Mr. Gragg comes from Asheville. They are expert photographers and will be prepared to do all kinds of work in the photographic line, outdoor work as well as the finest work in the way of high-class photographs. Mr. Walters, who has occupied the rooms for some time, has moved his photographic equipment to his home.

The big mill pond at Moss Neck, nine miles above here, crossed by the Seaboard, is to be drawn off next Thursday and Friday at which time it is expected many fish will be caught. Repairs to the mill necessitates drawing off the water.

The latest reports from Mr. Jas. Robeson, who is in a hospital at Florence as the result of injuries received while out driving at Marion last Sunday, is that there is little if any improvement in his condition. Little hope is entertained for his recovery.

The past two days have been observed by our Jewish citizens as a holiday and many visitors have been in town. Saturday of next week, will be another holiday, their places of business closing at 6 P. M. Friday and opening at 6 P. M. Saturday.

That the oyster season has opened here in earnest there is no doubt. We do not know the number of oyster saloons in town, but one place served five gallons yesterday from noon till 11 o'clock, in stews.

Never before had so many automobiles been seen on the streets of Lumberton as were seen here last night. They were occupied by people who came to see the show.

Sheriff Lewis returned from Red Springs tonight where he went to bring to jail Lawrence Jackson, charged with severely cutting Dudley McEachern, colored, both supposed to have been drinking. McEachern's condition is considered critical.

ELECT CHINESE PRESIDENT.

Election Will be Held Monday Morning—Japan and China Friendly.

Peking, China, Oct. 4.—The presidential election in the Chinese republic is to take place Monday. Members of the two Houses of Parliament will assemble in the morning for that purpose.

Immediately after the election the powers will recognize the Chinese republic. It is asserted that Japan has taken a prominent part in the movement for recognition and that relations between the Chinese and Japanese governments have greatly improved on this account.

sure as Summer skies are blue.

Bender vs. the Giants.

Bender won the only Athletic victory in 1905 when he shut out the Giants with three or four hits. He beat them two times out of three starts in 1911 He has always been a hard man for the Giants to hit. He is a hard man for any club to hit, once he is keyed up to the situation.

Bender has fine speed—in fact he is next to Walter Johnson in the way of smoke. And the Giants are not long on clubbing the fast boys. They will find Bender as hard to hit this time as they found him two years ago. He will have all the rest he needs—Mack has been using him lightly for some time —and he will be a powerful factor in the outcome.

We know of no harder combination to beat than Bender pitching for a slugging club—and one that can give him a sharp, sure defense.

Two Runs Each.

In each of these three games Bender worked, the Giants scored two runs. If he is about as effective as he was two years ago, which he looks to be, the question is can Matty, Marquard, Tesreau or Demaree hold Mack's club to a pair of runs or less per battle; the Giant attack may average two runs or more on Bender, but it isn't probable that it will average more. McGraw's best chance to win therefore, is for his Big Four to step in and spike the enemy's well loaded cannon. And it will take some spiking to keep this cannon from exploding only two runs a game for an average. Some spiking plus some more spiking. It can be done, but it has never been done for any curtained period when the cannon was needed to blow away along the guarded road.

On the other pay, Mathewson has done better work all along this season than he did in 1911. If Bender hasn't slipped, neither has the Manhattan Premier. He has been breezing along all season and for this occasion he has three aides in place of one. He can be used and saved now for the big spots. And he has a better club behind him and around him—so far as his batting and fielding support are concerned, than he has had since 1905.

CAROLINA WON.

Defeated Medical College of Virginia Fifteen to Nothing.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 4.—The second game of football in the 1913 schedule was played here today with the Medical College of Virginia. After a hard two hours' play the game was over and the score stood, 15 to 0 in Carolina's favor.

Carolina made one touchdown in the latter part of the first half and one touchdown in the first part of the second half. Both touchdowns were made by Ervin at full. The special features of the game were the line plunges of Ervin at full and the end runs of Tayloe at left half. The attendance numbered 1,200.

The summary: Touchdowns, Ervin 2; goals from touchdowns, Tayloe 1; substitutes for Carolina, Higgins for R. Abernethy; McCall for Johnston; J. Andrews for Cowell; Kernodle for Capt. Abernethy; Bob Edwards for Ramsey; Harris and Tennant for Huske; C. Y. Long and Love for omeHward; Allen for Lord; J. Burnett for Pope; Reid for Tayloe; Fuller for Ervin. Officials, Scores, referee, of Raleigh; umpire, Klutts, of Chapel Hill; head linesman, J. H. Manning, of Durham.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 4.—University of Maine football team which last Saturday was smothered by Harvard 34 to 0, gave Yale the biggest surprise in years on Yale field this afternoon by holding the Blue to nothing-nothing score. The Maine collegians though rushed off their feet at times, presented a magnificent defense, whenever their goal was threatened.

BENEFACTORS' DAY.

Annual Observance of Long Established Institution at Trinity.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Durham, N. C., Oct. 4.—Yesterday was observed as a holiday at Trinity College, it being Benefactors' Day. In the evening the address of the occasion was delivered in the Craven Memorial Hall by Dr. W. A. Webb, recently elected president of Randolph Macon College, for Women. The subject of Dr. Webb's address was "Dante's Influence Upon English Literature." He handled the subject in a delightful manner and held the attention of his audience throughout.

He began his address with a discussion of the new movement of the world of art and letters in the 13th century. He showed the conditions of the church and State in Dante's native city, Florence. Dante's own life was presented as revealed in his own autobiography. In his Divine Comedy, President Webb said that Dante has given the world a great spiritual biography. This work epitomizes and summarizes the observations of a statesman, the experiences of a philosopher, the visions of the mystic, and the aspirations of the poet whose heart beat in loving sympathy with the highest ideals of the race.

President Webb showed convincingly the influence of Dante upon Chaucer, upon Spenser, and especially upon Milton. All these writers were greatly indebted to the Italian poet. President Webb found that in Paradise Lost, Dante's influence upon Milton was of the most powerful. Dante's power of description was more realistic while Milton's was more sublime.

Following President Webb's address Dr. Few, president of Trinity College, announced the benefactions of the year. Of the gifts announced more than a million comes from Mr. Benjamin N. Duke and his brother, Mr. Jas. B. Duke, to both of whom the college was already indebted for large generosity, $150,000 from the General Education Board of New York, and the remainder in large or small amounts from many givers whose names were announced.

THIRTY-EIGHT IN PRISON.

Judge Humphries Clears Slate in Contempt Cases.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 4.—Thirty-eight persons, six women and 32 men, are yet in the county jail for refusal to pay fines imposed upon them for contempt of court by Superior Judge John E. Humphries. One man grew weary of his cell today and paid $100 fine.

The women in jail are Miss Minnie Parks, who told Judge Humphries the "resolutions of defiance" she signed were not half strong enough to express her contempt for him; Mrs. Mary Jarvis, who exclaimed in court that in England judges had less power than in America; Mrs. Ella Price, Mrs. L. Freed, Mrs. Catherine Stirrtan and Mrs. Hannah Anderson.

At tomorrow night's meeting called by the Free Speech Defense League, a resolution will be presented asking Governor Liston to pardon those sentenced. The Seattle Municipal League today instructed its committee on county affairs to investigate the administration of justice in King county courts.

When Judge Humphries convened court this morning there was only one contempt case on the docket. Except for notices of appeal to the Supreme Court, it concludes the contempt proceedings.

tion, who will not be available for duty. The once great twirler, who has never recovered from an attack of typhoid fever last Spring, was not counted on in this Fall's big event.

The Athletics will get in some exercise Monday and will leave here that afternoon in time to reach their headquarters in New York for dinner. Manager Mack, in keeping with his usual policy, has declined even to intimate which pitcher he will use in the opening game on Tuesday.

Manager Mack today received a letter from President Johnson, of the American League, saying Collins and Baker would not be permitted to take part in the world's series if they wrote or permitted the use of their names to newspaper articles.

"I think," said Mack, "that President Johnson's letter was written before he gave out his interview in Chicago Friday that players could write for newspapers if they proved to the satisfaction of the National Commission that they are capable of doing so. However, if the commission decides players must not write, under any conditions and the players decide not to abide by the ruling, I will be prepared to put a team on the field against New York next Tuesday."

Should such a contingency arise as the barring of Baker and Collins, the chances are that Lavan would go to second base and Oldring, who originally was a third baseman, would take Baker's place.

"Shall we meet each other There" or somewhere else?

Get good roads if you want to see everything coming your way.

Some people tell others their troubles and that's the way a lots of gossip gets started on its rounds.

Our idea of Uncle Joe's nerve is that it is what makes him refuse to believe that he is not needed any more.

In sleep man dreams of marble halls
But wakes within his humble cot;
'Tis then the voice of duty calls,
And yet the dreamer does it not.

Many of the trials which men have to endure can be avoided by not trying to get rich quick in getting what the other fellow got before they saw it last.

You needn't try to shirk your day's work on the roads November 5th and 6th, "Good Roads Days", for fear that somebody may later accuse you of having "been on the roads."

The Democrats in Congress have stood together because they understood what the people stood for when they elected Wilson and a Congress on a platform that stood for something.

A word to the wives may not be sufficient to make them quit talking about their neighbors. However, will Wisconsin's anti-gossip law make 'em sit up and take notice without whispering it aloud?

The Texas editor who left assets of $100,000, might have accounted for it in this way: "Amount saved from year's work, 30 cents; balance left of legacy from deceased uncle, $99,999.70. Total $100,000.

A little calm reflection today may enable you to see yourself in an entirely different light. When a man weighs himself in the right balance he ought to be able to hear the scales falling from his eyes.

The boneheads who lost their money betting on the games during the baseball season cannot view with complacency the fact that the umpires will be able to lie around all Winter and enjoy their ill-gotten gains.

The Nashville Banner says "the California prune crop is estimated at 200,000,000 pounds." The Tennessee legislators act as if they had been in California and got full of prunes before returning home to attend the extra session.

According to a Russian scientist a fellow who is always itching to have something to say is affected with a disease which he designates as verbomania. Probably those who take to the stump have an attack of what might be called spielitis.

The Interior Department now proposes to erect a woven wire fence to keep the Ute Indians out the Colorado National Park. If an Indian will let a wire fence stop him, it is time for a white man to "keep off the grass" when he sees the sign.

During the last 12 months 140,000 Americans settled in Canada. The reason they did so was because they were not posted about the opportunities in North Carolina. Canada has found out that the way to get settlers is to get them to thinking about Canada as a land of opportunity and great possibilities.

Col. Roosevelt is not the last man to throw his hat in the ring and never get it out with something in it. The signs of the times in North Carolina are that the Senatorial ring is laying for a whole lot of hats that will be off-size for the coco of a man big enough to wear it in the United States Senate.

Some Californians are monkeying around with a proposition to recall some of the women officeholders elected at the last election. The man who thinks he can recall a woman fails to recall his failure in every attempt he ever made to call a woman down. The only way to get a woman out of an office is to coax her into taking a better one.

FREIGHT RATE WRANGLE.

North Carolina's just freight rate problem seems to have developed into a freight rate wrangle in the Legislature at Raleigh. On Friday the wrangle was confined to the House and Senate committees which are giving judicial consideration to the bills looking to either a settlement or a solution of the State's troubles on account of rate discrimination at the hands of the public carriers. While the contentions before the committee developed personalities, it is not at all unlikely that by the time the bills get back into the two branches of the General Assembly they will arouse heated debate instead of being considered on their merits from an argumentative point of view.

Both the House and the Senate committees considered the resolution of Representative Young, of Harnett county, providing for the State's acceptance of the latest compromise in rates offered by the railroads. The House Committee reported overwhelmingly in favor of confirming the compromise, but it appears that the committee was intolerant of debate, for Representative Woodus Kellum, of Wilmington, seems to have been denied a hearing. At any rate, The Star's Raleigh correspondent reports that such feeling arose that "Mr. Kellum, of New Hanover, who was not allowed to speak after the previous question had been called, gave notice that he could be gagged in committee but would be heard" later when the bill gets before the House.

It was in the Senate Committee, however, that the contention waxed warm and furious. The committee heard arguments for and against the Young resolution, and, according to The Star's report, Mr. J. Allan Taylor, of Wilmington, was there to oppose the railroads' proposal and advocate the interests of Wilmington and Eastern North Carolina. Those who know him are prepared to believe that he did so with his usual ability and knowledge of rates. He must have made an argument that got under the shirt of the Hon. E. J. Justice, of Guilford, for he got into a tilt with Mr. Taylor and the amenities were more puerile than they were enlightening or entertaining.

The Raleigh News and Observer report calls it "a good-natured wrangle," but The Star's correspondent puts Mr. Justice in the attitude of taking a position that does him no credit. For instance, the report says: "Representative Justice charged that Wilmington was trying to hold up the proposition for a selfish advantage it now had, and challenged Wilmington to show anything they had done to help other parts of the State towards reductions."

If that is Mr. Justice's attitude it does not do credit to his intelligence. He should have remembered that if Wilmington had any selfishness in the part she has taken it would have been manifested in her being satisfied with her advantage to such an extent that she would have refused to take a hand in the rate fight with the balance of the State. If she had been selfish she might even have opposed a fight that promised relief to a part of the State while doing her an injury, which seems to be about the sum total that she will get out of Mr. Justice and others who are now leaving her to the mercy of the railroads.

We wish to remind Mr. Justice that his "charge" against Wilmington is disproven by the fact that Wilmington organized a Just Freight Association and stood loyally in the State-wide fight. That also answers his challenge for Wilmington "to show anything they had done to help the other parts of the State toward reductions." He should have given Wilmington credit for "helping" as much as any other part of the State. She joined the movement and helped by her Just Freight Rate Association. She sent conferees and rate experts to contend with the railroads in conference. That seems to be about as much as she could do and it is as much as any other city has done in the fight. More than that, Wilmington was the first city in the State to make a rate fight for relief for herself and incidentally for the State. Years ago she spent thousands of dollars in preparing a case for the Inter-State Commerce Commission while the balance of the State let her fight by herself. In the present fight, however, she fought with all parts of the State in what she understood was a State-wide fight for the benefit of the entire State. She seems to have been mistaken, for the fight seems to have been for that section of the State from which Mr. Justice hails.

It was unworthy of such an aspiring man as Mr. Justice to say that he was "in favor of fighting Wilmington and the A. C. L. and giving Wilmington lower rates." Again, he is reported: "'Instead of fighting the Atlantic Coast Line,' Mr. Justice declared, 'you people down there fight the other sections of the State. You have your remedy,' he declared, 'to build your city up and at the same time give the other cities of the State lower rates.'"

It is hardly necessary to point out the absurdity that Wilmington fights the other sections of the State, since her part in the present fight shows that she has fought with and fought for them. Previous to this, Wilmington has time and again fought for lower rates, and that means that she has fought against every railrorad that discriminated in rates. Thus it occurs that Mr. Justice flagrantly misrepresented Wilmington and recklessly places her in a false light before the State, which ought to know better.

Be that as it may, Mr. Justice betrays a woeful lack of knowledge of the rate-making theory, principle and precedent, when he proposes to fight lower rates at what the State ought to hope to make a rate-basing point before she will ever get full justice. What good would it do for Wilmington to fight the A. C. L. when men of Mr. Justice's calibre are now fighting with the railroads to keep Wilmington bottled up? His declared purpose to fight lower rates for Wilmington places him in alliance with the railroads to prevent Wilmington from becoming a rate-basing port. He makes himself a party to the railroads' fight to keep his State's port from freeing herself so she can ultimately be of benefit to all the State as an ocean gateway. It is just such statesmanship of the Justice stamp that has won for North Carolina the title of being "a strip of land between Virginia and South Carolina."

Let us make a plain proposition that cannot be refuted! The compromise offered by the railroads is a proposition to the State of North Carolina to enter into an agreement with the railroads to permit them to keep Wilmington bottled up. The railroads offer reduced rates in one section of the State in consideration of a pact with the State to prevent Wilmington from ever becoming a rate-basing port. The consideration for reduced freight rates in the interior is for Wilmington to be left in a position where the railroads can handle her at their will. The railroads propose for Wilmington to be the goat and the State is asked to agree to the proposition through its Legislature. The motive of the railroads, actually made with boldness in their proposal, is to keep North Carolina from having a rate-basing port.

Why? Because they know that it will free North Carolina without making it necessary for her to come to terms with the railroads. That is so plain, the motive, the bargain and the compromise, that a ten-year-old boy, let alone Mr. Justice, ought to see through it and understand it. Yet for a consideration of lower rates in his part of the State, Mr. Justice is willing to enter into an unholy alliance with the railroads to fight lower rates for Wilmington. That is precisely what the bargain is and the railroads know it, even if Mr. Justice is not able to see that it is loaded.

Pity the day that North Carolina falls into the trap and we pity the statesman that is helping to set the trap. North Carolina does not have to walk into the trap if she will only assert her sovereignty like Minnesota and Wisconsin have done. The Legislature is the only power that can keep North Carolina out of the trap which looks good to such rate-makers as Mr. Justice.

THE LEMON WRAPPER REGION.

Eastern North Carolina fully sustains its reputation as the lemon wrapper region of the tobacco-growing industry in this great tobacco-producing State. Tidal North Carolina produces the highest grades of yellow tobacco, and in the counties around Wilmington the growers are making a magnificent success of it.

Through its traveling representative, Mr. E. C. Wooten, The Star yesterday received from the Wallace Tobacco Warehouse eight hands of fine yellow tobacco, the product of Duplin county. They are samples of as many lots that were sold on the Wallace warehouse for 22 1-2 to 25 cents per pound.

Messrs. Baines & Bray, proprietors of the Wallace Tobacco Warehouse, sent these samples to The Star and we can say that they speak volumes for the tobacco-growing adaptibility of the fine old county of Duplin. Tobacco is bringing wealth to the farmers of that county and yet it is one of the finest cotton peanut and corn-growing counties in the State. All the money crops and general farm products flourish there, and the time is coming when such unrivalled agricultural resources as are possessed by Duplin will make it one of the leading counties of North Carolina.

The legislator who introduces a bill containing what he knows is a joker and the legislator who unwittingly permits himself to be imposed upon by others who get him to introduce a bill containing a joker, belong to the Mutt class—one at the head and one at the foot. One ought to know better than to fire when it's loaded and the other doesn't know when to look into it to see if it's loaded.

Quite a number of Americans who have got theirs probably decided to live in Europe for the reason that it is safer.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Wilmington men who have a plenty of money, and who want to make a little trip over the railroad can well afford to go to Raleigh to the public hearing of Representative Kellum's bill making the sale of beer legal at Wilmington and Wrightsville Beach.—Greenville Reflector.

The Legislature is evidently in a mood to investigate excessive fire insurance rates, of which there is a very great amount of complaint, not only in Raleigh, but elsewhere. Not a day passes without such complaints being expressed in this city, and it is asserted that the insurance association in this part of the country, which not a few people do not hesitate to call a trust, is most arbitrary in raising and fixing rates. Such are the statements made to members of the Legislature, who lend a listening ear.—Raleigh Times.

There is method in the Seaboard Air Line's scheme of community development. Spring is a slack time for freight cars and the Seaboard proposes to grow dewberries and strawberries to keep them busy. The company itself will not grow the truck but will coax the farmers to supply the freight. This it proposes to do by furnishing the plants and vines. The Sanford Express notes that already the Seaboard has shipped 75,000 young dewberry vines to Bladenboro and other points between Hamlet and Wilmington, but this is only a starter. The Express says the Seaboard will send to truckers and fruit growers in that section 1,000,000 dewberry vines and 1,000,000 strawberry plants for next season's crop. Not only will the plants and vines be furnished free, but an expert will be sent into the trucking district to give instructions as to the setting out and cultivation of the stock. This is a practical plan of development work and within the course of two years the results are going to make themselves manifest.—Charlotte Observer.

CARD FROM OFFICERS.

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 4th, 1913.

Editor Star: In reporting an account of the arrest of one Jno. W. Steers, the afternoon paper quotes H. Mack Godwin as stating that two men, in the vicinity of the Clyde steamship wharf, one night recently, approached two plainclothesmen of the police department and asked for an opener for several bottles of beer carried by them. As we are the only plainclothesmen on night duty, the evasive criticism, for such it is, is undoubtedly directed at us. We emphatically deny this statement. While we recognize the right of any citizen to criticise a police officer, it is unusual to find one officer who will criticise a fellow officer through a newspaper. We are not, of course, aware that Godwin is a regular officer, although he appears to pose as such. Whatever the aim of this criticism, we are willing to stake our reputations as officers upon our more than ten years' service in the police department, and we fear nothing from criticism coming from the source from which the above statement came.

Your truly,
B. W. JACOBS,
FRANK GEORGE.

FIRE PROOF MATERIAL.

Children May Have Non-Inflammable Clothing—Actors Protected.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 4.—Children now may be pressed in fireproof clothing, actors may have their costumes treated to resist flame, lace curtains that usually are a menace in homes lighted with gas or oil may be made less hazardous.

The problem of making cotton a safe article of apparel was explained to the members of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers in session here by Prof. William Henry Perkin, of the University of Manchester (England) who made upwards of 10,000 burning tests before a solution was found that would stand constant washing with soap and other compounds and remain non-combustible.

Prof. Perkin demonstrated before the manufacturers four specimens treated to resist fire. The first was the material processed but not washed; the second the treated material after being washed ten times by hand; the third showed the material after being machine washed 20 times in a laundry, and finally a portion of a garment in actual use for two years, washed every week and practically in rags. All resisted fire and Prof. Perkin asserted that no amount of washing with hot soap and water would remove the fire proofing agent. The process was described as follows:

The cotton fabric is run through a solution of sodium stannate of approximately 45 degrees Tw. In such a manner that it becomes thoroughly impregnated. It is then squeezed to remove the excess of the solution, passed over heated copper drums in order to thoroughly dry it, after which it is run through a solution of ammounia sulphate of about 15 degrees Tw. and again squeezed and dried. Apart from the precipitated stannic oxide (tin) the material now contains sodium sulphate and this is removed by passage through water. The material is then dried and subjected to the ordinary process of finishig. A long series of trials, carried out under the most stringent conditions, have conclusively proved that material subjected to this process is permanently fireproofed."

Most of the experiments thus far made have been with flannelette because that material is generally demanded for children's clothing. Speaking of the extraordinary property of resisting soap and water that is possessed by material so treated, Prof. Perkin said it seemed to indicate to him "that the oxide of tin is not present merely as an insoluble precipitate in the cloth, but must have entered into some actual combination with the fiber, yielding a compound which is not broken down by the action of the weak alkali of the soap. But a matter of hardly less importance from the practical point of view is that the material is not only permanently fireproofed by the process I have just described, but it also retains and acquires properties which make it as perfect a material in all other respects as could be desired. In the first place, the treatment has no effect on the delicate colors which are now so generally employed in connection with the manufacture of flannelette and other cotton goods and very careful experiments have demonstrated the fact that the insoluble tin compound in the fiber has not the slightest deleterious action on the most delicate skin. In addition, the presence of the tin compound in the pores gives the cloth a softer and fuller feel than that of the original flannetlette and what perhaps is the most unexpected result is the fact that the material is considerably strengthened by the process.

"A series of tests made by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce proved that the tensile strength of flannelette is increased enarly 20 per ceet as the result of the introduction of the tin compound into the fiber.

"It seems to me that it is obvious that, if this process or some other process capable of giving the same protection from fire was adopted in the case of all inflammable cotton goods and especially in the case of material used for garments, many disastrous fires and the appalling loss of life, especially among young children, might be avoided, and it is for this reason that I have ventured to bring the subject of the permanent fireproofing of cotton goods to your notice."

CHARGED WITH SLANDER.

Such is Accusation Against Representative Jones.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Representative Jones, of Virginia, chairman of the House committee on Insular Affairs, is charged with making false statements with "unwarranted and unpatriotic assaults upon the good names of Americans in the government of the Philippine Islands," and with "malicious and reckless slander" in a statement by W. Cameron Forbes, former governor-general of the islands, received today by members of the House.

Mr. Forbes' statement was written in Manila and is in reply to speeches made in the House by Mr. Jones in which he was attacked for inefficiency in the conduct of the government of the islands; charged with reckless expenditure of public funds, and with the protection of American officials engaged in graft.

After making a detailed answer to specific charges made by Representative Jones, Mr. Forbes asserts that Mr. Jones "has been a willing and credulous listener to soreheads."

MAY DETHRONE KING OTTO.

Mad Ruler May be Replaced by Prince Regent Ludwig.

Munich, Oct. 4.—Newspapers declare today that the Bavarian government has reviewed its plan for dethroning the mad King Otto and placing the Prince Regent Ludwig on the throne. It suggested this course at the time of the death of the old regent last year, but Prince Ludwig vetoed the movement.

The government has introduced a bill for increasing the Prince Regent's civil list, hoping to convince members of the clerical party that it would be cheaper to place him on the throne as King.

NEGRO KILLED AT POCOMOKE

Thomas DuPree Fatally Wounded George Dixon Yesterday Afternoon at Pocomoke—Made His Escape.

Presumably because of a dispute about a woman with him at the time, Thomas DuPree, colored, yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the Pocomoke guano factory, a short distance up the river, shot George Dixon, also colored, just below the heart inflicting a fatal wound from which he died in a few minutes.

DuPree successfully made his escape, and Sheriff Cowan and his corps of deputies are giving hot pursuit. The police are also working on the case, and should he turn up in the city will arrest him.

Soon after the shooting occurred Chief Williams was notified and he immediately sent Officers C. E. Wood and G. H. Bullard to the Hilton bridge in the northern part of the city to arrest the negro should he come into the city. When night came on they were relieved by Plainclothes Officers B. W. Jacobs and Frank George who kept up a close watch last night.

Mr. S. L. Boyd, agent for the American Agricultural and Chemical Co., owners of the Pocomoke factory, as soon as he heard of the shooting which occurred on the grounds of the factory, went over to make investigation. He was able to find out few particulars except that DuPree had pulled out his pistol and shot the other negro apparently with no provocation.

He came back to the city about 9 o'clock, and swore out a warrant for DuPree's arrest before Justice Harriss. Sheriff Cowan was notified and also Coroner John J. Fowler. These gentlemen accompanied by Constable Davis, Deputy Sheriffs Kelly and Reynolds and Special Officer H. Mack Godwin left the city last night about 10 o'clock for the scene of the murder. They secured a boat and went up the Cape Fear river.

Mr. Boyd said last night that both negroes had been employed in the Pocomoke factory during the past week, and had been paid off yesterday at noon when the plant closed down for the afternoon. He stated that he had found Dixon to be a peaceable negro, and little given to acting the bully. He did not know where DuPree was from but thought that he came from Newbern. Other messages, however, stated that he was from Chadbourn.

A personal reward of $50 offered by Mr. C. M. Harnley, and also a reward of $50 authorized by Mr. Boyd as agent for the Agricultural company are out for DuPree's arrest. He is described as a black negro, weighing 165 or 170 pounds and about six feet high.

Coroner Fowler brought the body of Dixon back to the city last night in the boat, and will hold an inquest today. The officers will spare no effort to catch the negro though it was feared last night that they would not be able to get him before today, and possibly not at all.

The woman, who was with DuPree at the time the shooting occurred, is named Hattie Jones, and it is probable that she will be arrested as a material witness. She possibly may be held as an accomplice.

BROOKLYN DODGERS COMING.

Efforts Being Made to Get Ebbetts' team to Play in Wilmington.

Through efforts of Mr. John Bloome, and several other gentlemen, it is probable that Wilmington will have an opportunity to see the Brooklyn National Leaguers in action in a game here on either October 25th or November 1st.

Next week the Dodgers start on a tour through Pennsylvania, on their way to Cuba, where they play a dozen games during the month of November, and they will be at the nearest point to Wilmington the last week in October. Mr. Bloome is in correspondence with Col. C. H. Ebbetts, president of the Brooklyn club and will likely get a reply within the next few days, and the game will be arranged on one of the above dates.

Should the game be pulled off here, a strong team will be gotten together to play the Dodgers. Bert Kite will officiate behind the mask, and Harvey Bussey, who played here in the Eastern Carolina League four years ago, will be seen in the game. Pitcher Cates, of Raleigh, will be requisitioned to do the twirling honors, and the balance of the team will be picked from first-class local talent.

REPRESENTATIVES RETURN

Mr. Kellum and Mr. Bellamy, of Brunswick, at Home for Week-End—Talk of Local Measures in Assembly.

Both Representatives Woodus Kellum, of New Hanover, and George H. Bellamy, of Brunswick, reached here yesterday from the session of the General Assembly in Raleigh, to spend the week-end with relatives. They return Monday morning in time to attend the regular sessions of that day.

Mr. Kellum when seen yesterday talked interestingly of the work of the extra session of the Legislature and said that there was little to distinguish the extra from a regular session. Both Houses have been flooded with local bills from every section and rival delegations are besieging the capitol every day in some factional fight from various counties. The really big work of the extra session, Mr. Kellum says, has hardly gotten under way and he smiled when asked to predict the possible length of the extra session.

Mr. Kellum does not speak optimistically of the likelihood of a rejection of the proposal of the railroads for a half-settlement of the freight rate problem, though it is plainly to be seen that if the measures does get through, those who are pushing it will know there has been a fight. Many sections of the State have sent able men to Raleigh who get the comprehensive view of the rate question and Mr. Kellum thinks the fight will be strenuous and to the point. He was particularly gratified at the splendid showing made for the port through the committees Friday afternoon when Mr. Taylor and Mr. J. G. McCormick were the spokesmen for a strong delegation from this city.

Mr. Kellum states that the stock law legislation seems to be encountering little objection at this session, though a number of counties have been granted a vote on the question.

"Wait until it gets to the Senate," was the only comment Mr. Kellum would make on the proposed beer bill for New Hanover. He said that the hearing before the Liquor Traffic Committee, which was decidedly adverse to such legislation, would be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. He was not advised to the size of any delegation that would go up from Wilmington for or against the bill.

TEACHERS MET YESTERDAY.

Elect Officers for Coming Year and Discuss School Matters.

The rural teachers of the county had their first meeting for the year yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the Court House. Prof. Washington Catlett, county superintendent of public instruction, was re-elected president of the association, and Miss Julia Cameron was elected secretary. There was a good attendance, all the teachers being present with the exception of three.

The work of the Teachers' Reading Circle was discussed and the work for the year outlined. The teachers gave reports of their work which showed an increased attendance this year. Greater interest in the schools has also been manifested by the parents. In several schools community meetings of the parents have been held which have proved to be very helpful in arousing interest in the schools. The next meeting of the Teachers' Association will be held November 8th.

At the close of the business session Dr. John Thames, assistant superintendent of health, explained the law applying to vaccination of school children. He stated that all children in the schools are required by law to be vaccinated, and that this work is done free of charge by the county. He said that he had vaccinated quite a number of children during the past two weeks. If the parents prefer it may be done by the family physician. This must, however, be done within the next two weeks either by the county physician or family physician or the children will be debarred from the public schools.

BOYS' BRIGADE WORK.

Young Men's Business Meeting Tomorrow Night—Reception.

The regular monthly meeting of Companies A and B, of the Boys' Brigade will be held tomorrow night when several matters of importance will be considered. About 15 new members will be added to Company B, some through promotion from Company C, and some new members. Every member is expected to be present as this is the first meeting of the Fall season. Several splendid speakers have been secured to deliver addresses during the Winter months and these will begin next week.

The social committee has completed arrangements for the opening reception, which will be held on Thursday night. This promises to be a most enjoyable affair. It will be a public function and every friend of this institution is cordially invited to spend the evening as guests of the Brigade. A splendid musical programme will be rendered, refreshments served and a general good time enjoyed.

The Friday night basket ball league will open up next Friday night, and some good sport is promised as all the teams are strong and in good condition for fast work, which will keep the spectators on edge from start to finish. This league will furnish some good games throughout the entire Winter.

The Tuesday night league will be organized on Wednesday night and as there are several young players in the Brigade who are enthusiastic over this game, they will put up some good exhibitions.

Giants Defeat Wrightsboro.

In an interesting game of baseball played on Burnett's diamond yesterday afternoon the Giants defeated Wrightsboro, the score being 8 to 7. Each team got three hits. The batteries for the Giants were Jones and James; for Wrightsboro, Seitter and Jarnigan. The Giants and the Immanuel Athletics are now tied for the first place in the Independent League, and they will play at Burnett's diamond next Saturday afternoon to decide the championship.

Or are you asleep, with all your congregation? If so, you had better wake up, and preach from Revelations. (advertisement.)

RECAPITULATION OF TAXES

Total Taxable Property in New Hanover Valued at $19,066,674—Amount of Taxes is $213,078—Summary.

The total taxable property in New Hanover county is valued at $19,066,674 according to the returns made by the tax listers of the county, and the State Corporation Commission. This includes real and personal property, building and loan stock, steamboats, railroads, telegraph and telephone, bank stock and corporate excess. The total amount of taxes to be collected is $213,078.72. The total number of men subject to poll tax is 4,710.

Mr. J. A. Orrell, county auditor, and Mr. W. A. Williams, clerk of the Board of County Commissioners, yesterday completed the checking up of the books preparatory to turning them over to the sheriff Monday when the County Commissioners meet. Messrs. H. R. Aiken and J. C. Stephens, tax listers for Wilmington, have assisted Mr. Orrell and Mr. Williams in making out the books. It has been a big job, and they have worked faithfully.

Owing to the usual tardiness of the Corporation Commission in making their returns they were delayed in their work, and it has required extra work to get them out on time. However, they have proved themselves to be equal to the occasion, and they are now in readiness for the sheriff and his deputies to begin their annual collection of taxes.

A preliminary recapitulation was made several months ago in order that the board of County Commissioners might make their annual levy of taxes. This, however, was a rough calculation. The figures as given above have been checked and are as accurate as it is possible to have them. Following is a summary of the results as worked out by Mr. Orrell.

Recapitulation.

Real and personal property, white	$14,095,091

The total number of dogs listed in the county is 69 on which there is due a tax of $2 per head. The total taxes on incomes is $5,486.02. The total number of white polls is 3,340; total number of colored polls 1,370.

ELECTRICITY RUNS CLOCK.

Mr. D. A. Palmgren Perfects Invention After Many Years' Work.

Mr. D. A. Palmgren, of this city, has just perfected an invention of a clock which is run by electricity. For many years there have been clocks wound by electricity, but none that are run directly by means of batteries. Mr. Palmgren's clock has no main spring nor wheels except the dial wheel. This reduces the friction to a minimum, and consequently the clock, Mr. Palmgren says, will keep better time than a clock with many wheels.

Mr. Palmgren began working on a clock of this kind when he was living in his native country, Sweden, more than 30 years ago, and invented a clock which was run on the principle that the electrically wound clocks are now run. This, however, had so many wires in it that it was not practicable Later while living in Newfoundland he invented another clock, but this did not keep accurate time, and he never placed it on the market.

He has thoroughly perfected the clock that he has recently invented, and finds that it will keep perfect time. On account of the few parts it can be manufactured at a small cost. A 25-cent battery, he says, will run it for a year so that there is little cost for keeping it going. Every part is thoroughly adjusted so that there is no deviation of time. The balance wheel made of different kinds of metal adapts itself to the changing temperatures, and the running parts based on the same principle used in sending messages in over the telegraph is absolutely automatic.

Mr. Palmgren and Mr. A. O. Schuster are arranging to place the clock on the market. They have not yet definitely decided whether they will sell the patent rights to some clock manufacturer or organize a company for its manufacture.

THE RECORDER'S COURT.

John Day, White, Sent to White Roads for Four Months.

Because he didn't have the money to pay a fine and the costs in three cases against him in the Recorder's court, John Day, white, will have to serve four months on the roads unless some kind friend comes to his rescue. He and George Woebse, also white, submitted yesterday to a charge of gambling, and were fined $10 and the costs. Woebse paid up, and was discharged. Judgment was suspended upon payment of the costs in a charge of vagrancy against Day. He was also held for the payment of the costs in a former case against him in the Recorder's court. In default of the payment of the costs in the three cases and the fine the Recorder placed an aggregate sentence of four months on the roads. Buck Smith, colored, was charged with striking another negro, but an important witness was absent, and the State took a nol pros with leave.

Wilmington's Death Rate.

The records of the county health department show that Wilmington's temporary death rate for the month of September was 16.4 for white and colored. For colored the death rate was 25.01; for white the death rate was 8.4. The number of deaths for the year up to October 1st was 438; for same period in 1912 the number of deaths was 478, and for same period in 1911 the number was 595. The decrease in the number of deaths in 1912 from that of previous year was 117, and for 1913 the decrease was 40. The total decrease for the two years in the number of deaths for the nine months was 157. The increase in population was over 4,000 in the two years.

WHO IS BIANCHINI?

Every woman who wears softly clinging, beautifully colored, exquisitely designed Silks should know about him. In Paris, off Avenue de l'Opera, on the corner of a little street, is where Monsieur Bianchini works.

Into his shop come all the great Paris dressmakers and fashion makers, who seek the new and unusual, for Bianchini has done for Silks what no one else has done for fabrics since Jacquard invented his wonderful loom.

They say in Paris that Bianchini was born with a "silk brain," because it was he who first:

1. Invented the way to make Chiffon as soft as air.
2. Took the stiffness and noise out of Taffeta.
3. Created the family of soft, pliant Silks, like Messaline, Charmeuse, Crepe Meteor and Marquisettes.

Such Silks can be had at Polvogt's, now in the newest Fall shades and widths, at prices that are making Polvogt's Silk section favorably famous in this city.

Among the SILKS We Feature Are:

40-inch Crepe Meteor.

Get good roads if you want to see everything coming your way.

Many of the trials which men have to endure can be avoided by not trying to get rich quick in getting what the other fellow got before they saw it last.

You needn't try to shirk your day's work on the roads November 5th and 6th, "Good Roads Days", for fear that somebody may later accuse you of having "been on the roads."

The Democrats in Congress have stood together because they understood what the people stood for when they elected Wilson and a Congress on a platform that stood for something.

A word to the wives may not be sufficient to make them quit talking about their neighbors. However, will Wisconsin's anti-gossip law make 'em sit up and take notice without whispering it aloud?

The Texas editor who left assets of $100,000, might have accounted for it in this way: "Amount saved from year's work, 30 cents; balance left of legacy from deceased uncle, $99,999.70. Total $100,000.

A little calm reflection today may enable you to see yourself in an entirely different light. When a man weighs himself in the right balance he ought to be able to hear the scales falling from his eyes.

The Nashville Banner says "the California prune crop is estimated at 200,000,000 pounds." The Tennessee legislators act as if they had been in California and got full of prunes before returning home to attend the extra session.

During the last 12 months 140,000 Americans settled in Canada. The reason they did so was because they were not posted about the opportunities in North Carolina. Canada has found out that the way to get settlers is to get them to thinking about Canada as a land of opportunity and great possibilities.

Col. Roosevelt is not the last man to throw his hat in the ring and never get it out with something in it. The signs of the times in North Carolina are that the Senatorial ring is laying for a whole lot of hats that will be off-size for the coco of a man big enough to wear it in the United States Senate.

Some Californians are monkeying around with a proposition to recall some of the women officeholders elected at the last election. The man who thinks he can recall a woman fails to recall his failure in every attempt he ever made to call a woman down. The only way to get a woman out of an office is to coax her into taking a better one.

FREIGHT RATE WRANGLE.

North Carolina's just freight rate problem seems to have developed into a freight rate wrangle in the Legislature at Raleigh. On Friday the wrangle was confined to the House and Senate committees which are giving judicial consideration to the bills looking to either a settlement or a solution of the State's troubles on account of rate discrimination at the hands of the public carriers. While the contentions before the committee developed personalities, it is not at all unlikely that by the time the bills get back into the two branches of the General Assembly they will arouse heated debate instead of being considered on their merits from an argumentative point of view.

Both the House and the Senate committees considered the resolution of Representative Young, of Harnett county, providing for the State's acceptance of the latest compromise in rates offered by the railroads. The House Committee reported overwhelmingly in favor of confirming the compromise, but it appears that the committee was intolerant of debate, for Representative Woodus Kellum, of Wilmington, seems to have been denied a hearing. At any rate, The Star's Raleigh correspondent reports that such feeling arose that "Mr. Kellum, of New Hanover, who was not allowed to speak after the previous question had been called, gave notice that he could be gagged in committee but would be heard" later when the bill gets before the House.

It was in the Senate Committee, however, that the contention waxed warm and furious. The committee heard arguments for and against the Young resolution, and, according to The Star's report, Mr. J. Allan Taylor, of Wilmington, was there to oppose the railroads' proposal and advocate the interests of Wilmington and Eastern North Carolina. Those who know him are prepared to believe that he did so with his usual ability and knowledge of rates. He must have made an argument that got under the shirt of the Hon. E. J. Justice, of Guilford, for he got into a tilt with Mr. Taylor and the amenities were more puerile than they were enlightening or entertaining.

The Raleigh News and Observer report calls it "a good-natured wrangle," but The Star's correspondent puts Mr. Justice in the attitude of taking a position that does him no credit. For instance, the report says: "Representative Justice charged that Wilmington was trying to hold up the proposition for a selfish advantage it now had, and challenged Wilmington to show anything they had done to help other parts of the State towards reductions."

If that is Mr. Justice's attitude it does not do credit to his intelligence. He should have remembered that if Wilmington had any selfishness in the part she has taken it would have been manifested in her being satisfied with her advantage to such an extent that she would have refused to take a hand in the rate fight with the balance of the State. If she had been selfish she might even have opposed a fight that promised relief to a part of the State while doing her an injury, which seems to be about the sum total that she will get out of Mr. Justice and others who are now leaving her to the mercy of the railroads.

We wish to remind Mr. Justice that his "charge" against Wilmington is disproven by the fact that Wilmington organized a Just Freight Association and stood loyally in the State-wide fight. That also answers his challenge for Wilmington "to show anything they had done to help the other parts of the State toward reductions." He should have given Wilmington credit for "helping" as much as any other part of the State. She joined the movement and helped by her Just Freight Rate Association. She sent conferees and rate experts to contend with the railroads in conference. That seems to be about as much as she could do and it is as much as any other city has done in the fight. More than that, Wilmington was the first city in the State to make a rate fight for relief for herself and incidentally for the State. Years ago she spent thousands of dollars in preparing a case for the Inter-State Commerce Commission while the balance of the State let her fight by herself. In the present fight, however, she fought with all parts of the State in what she undersrtood was a State-wide fight for the benefit of the entire State. She seems to have been mistaken, for the fight seems to have been for that section of the State from which Mr. Justice hails.

It was unworthy of such an aspiring man as Mr. Justice to say that he was "in favor of fighting Wilmington and the A. C. L. and giving Wilmington lower rates." Again, he is reported: "'Instead of fighting the Atlantic Coast Line,' Mr. Justice declared, 'you people down there fight the other sections of the State. You have your remedy,' he declared, 'to build your city up and at the same time give the other cities of the State lower rates.'"

It is hardly necessary to point out the absurdity that Wilmington fights the other sections of the State, since her part in the present fight shows that she has fought with and fought for them. Previous to this, Wilmington has time and again fought for lower rates, and that means that she has fought against every railrorad that discriminated in rates. Thus it occurs that Mr. Justice flagrantly misrepresented Wilmington and recklessly places her in a false light before the State, which ought to know better.

Be that as it may, Mr. Justice betrays a woeful lack of knowledge of the rate-making theory, principle and precedent, when he proposes to fight lower rates at what the State ought to hope to make a rate-basing point before she will ever get full justice. What good would it do for Wilmington to fight the A. C. L. when men of Mr. Justice's calibre are now fighting with the railroads to keep Wilmington bottled up? His declared purpose to fight lower rates for Wilmington places him in alliance with the railroads to prevent Wilmington from becoming a rate-basing port. He makes himself a party to the railroads' fight to keep his State's port from freeing herself so she can ultimately be of benefit to all the State as an ocean gateway. It is just such statesmanship of the Justice stamp that has won for North Carolina the title of being "a strip of land between Virginia and South Carolina."

Let us make a plain proposition that cannot be refuted! The compromise offered by the railroads is a proposition to the State of North Carolina to enter into an agreement with the railroads to permit them to keep Wilmington bottled up. The railroads offer reduced rates in one section of the State in consideration of a pact with the State to prevent Wilmington from ever becoming a rate-basing port. The consideration for reduced freight rates in the interior is for Wilmington to be left in a position where the railroads can handle her at their will. The railroads propose for Wilmington to be the goat and the State is asked to agree to the proposition through its Legislature. The motive of the railroads, actually made with boldness in their proposal, is to keep North Carolina from having a rate-basing port.

Why? Because they know that it will free North Carolina without making it necessary for her to come to terms with the railroads. That is so plain, the motive, the bargain and the compromise, that a ten-year-old boy, let alone Mr. Justice, ought to see through it and understand it. Yet for a consideration of lower rates in his part of the State, Mr. Justice is willing to enter into an unholy alliance with the railroads to fight lower rates for Wilmington. That is precisely what the bargain is and the railroads know it, even if Mr. Justice is not able to see that it is loaded.

Pity the day that North Carolina falls into the trap and we pity the statesman that is helping to set the trap. North Carolina does not have to walk into the trap if she will only assert her sovereignty like Minnesota and Wisconsin have done. The Legislature is the only power that can keep North Carolina out of the trap which looks good to such rate-makers as Mr. Justice.

THE LEMON WRAPPER REGION.

Eastern North Carolina fully sustains its reputation as the lemon wrapper region of the tobacco-growing industry in this great tobacco-producing State. Tidal North Carolina produces the highest grades of yellow tobacco, and in the counties around Wilmington the growers are making a magnificent success of it.

Through its traveling representative, Mr. E. C. Wooten, The Star yesterday received from the Wallace Tobacco Warehouse eight hands of fine yellow tobacco, the product of Duplin county. They are samples of as many lots that were sold on the Wallace warehouse for 22 1-2 to 25 cents per pound.

Messrs. Baines & Bray, proprietors of the Wallace Tobacco Warehouse, sent these samples to The Star and we can say that they speak volumes for the tobacco-growing adaptibility of the fine old county of Duplin. Tobacco is bringing wealth to the farmers of that county and yet it is one of the finest cotton peanut and corn-growing counties in the State. All the money crops and general farm products flourish there, and the time is coming when such unrivalled agricultural resources as are possessed by Duplin will make it one of the leading counties of North Carolina.

The legislator who introduces a bill containing what he knows is a joker and the legislator who unwittingly permits himself to be imposed upon by others who get him to introduce a bill containing a joker, belong to the Mutt class—one at the head and one at the foot. One ought to know better than to fire when it's loaded and the other doesn't know when to look into it to see if it's loaded.

Quite a number of Americans who have got theirs probably decided to live in Europe for the reason that it is safer.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Wilmington men who have a plenty of money, and who want to make a little trip over the railroad can well afford to go to Raleigh to the public hearing of Representative Kellum's bill making the sale of beer legal at Wilmington and Wrightsville Beach. —Greenville Reflector.

The Legislature is evidently in a mood to investigate excessive fire insurance rates, of which there is a very great amount of complaint, not only in Raleigh, but elsewhere. Not a day passes without such complaints being expressed in this city, and it is asserted that the insurance association in this part of the country, which not a few people do not hesitate to call a trust, is most arbitrary in raising and fixing rates. Such are the statements made to members of the Legislature, who lend a listening ear. —Raleigh Times.

There is method in the Seaboard Air Line's scheme of community development. Spring is a slack time for freight cars and the Seaboard proposes to grow dewberries and strawberries to keep them busy. The company itself will not grow the truck but will coax the farmers to supply the freight. This it proposes to do by furnishing the plants and vines. The Sanford Express notes that already the Seaboard has shipped 75,000 young dewberry vines to Bladenboro and other points between Hamlet and Wilmington, but this is only a starter. The Express says the Seaboard will send to truckers and fruit growers in that section 1,000,000 dewberry vines and 1,000,000 strawberry plants for next season's crop. Not only will the plants and vines be furnished free, but an expert will be sent into the trucking district to give instructions as to the setting out and cultivation of the stock. This is a practical plan of development work and within the course of two years the results are going to make themselves manifest.—Charlotte Observer.

CARD FROM OFFICERS.

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 4th, 1913.

Editor Star: In reporting an account of the arrest of one Jno. W. Steers, the afternoon paper quotes H. Mack Godwin as stating that two men, in the vicinity of the Clyde steamship wharf, one night recently, approached two plainclothesmen of the police department and asked for an opener for several bottles of beer carried by them. As we are the only plainclothesmen on night duty, the evasive criticism, for such it is, is undoubtedly directed at us. We emphatically deny this statement. While we recognize the right of any citizen to criticise a police officer, it is unusual to find one officer who will criticise a fellow officer through a newspaper. We are not, of course, aware that Godwin is a regular officer, although he appears to pose as such. Whatever the aim of this criticism, we are willing to stake our reputations as officers upon our more than ten years' service in the police department, and we fear nothing from criticism coming from the source from which the above statement came.

Your truly,
B. W. JACOBS,
FRANK GEORGE.

FIRE PROOF MATERIAL.

Children May Have Non-Inflammable Clothing—Actors Protected.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 4.—Children now may be pressed in fireproof clothing, actors may have their costumes treated to resist flame, lace curtains that usually are a menace in homes lighted with gas or oil may be made less hazardous.

The problem of making cotton a safe article of apparel was explained to the members of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers in session here by Prof. William Henry Perkin, of the University of Manchester (England who made upwards of 10,000 burning tests before a solution was found that would stand constant washing with soap and other compounds and remain non-combustible.

Prof. Perkin demonstrated before the manufacturers four specimens treated to resist fire. The first was the material processed but not washed; the second the treated material after being washed ten times by hand; the third showed the material after being machine washed 20 times in a laundry, and finally a portion of a garment in actual use for two years, washed every week and practically in rags. All resisted fire and Prof. Perkin asserted that no amount of washing with hot soap and water would remove the fire proofing agent. The process was described as follows:

The cotton fabric is run through a solution of sodium stannate of approximately 45 degrees Tw. in such a manner that it becoines thoroughly impregnated. It is then squeezed to remove the excess of the solution, passed over heated copper drums in order to thoroughly dry it, after which it is run through a solution of ammounia sulphate of about 15 degrees Tw. and again squeezed and dried. Apart from the precipitated stannic oxide (tin) the material now contains sodium sulphate and this is removed by passage through water; the material is then dried and subjected to the ordinary process of finishig. A long series of trials, carried out under the most stringent conditions, have conclusively proved that material subjected to this process is permanently fireproofed."

Most of the experiments thus far made have been with flannelette because that material is generally demanded for children's clothing. Speaking of the extraordinary property of resisting soap and water that is possessed by material so treated, Prof. Perkin said it seemed to indicate to him "that the oxide of tin is not present merely as an insoluble precipitate in the cloth, but must have entered into some actual combination with the fiber, yielding a compound which is not broken down by the action of the weak alkali of the soap. But a matter of hardly less importance from the practical point of view is that the material is not only permanently fireproofed by the process I have just described, but it also retains and acquires properties which make it as perfect a material in all other respects as could be desired. In the first place, the treatment has no effect on the delicate colors which are now so generally employed in connection with the manufacture of flannelette and other cotton goods and very careful experiments have demonstrated the fact that the insoluble tin compound in the fiber has not the slightest deleterious action on the most delicate skin. In addition, the presence of the tin compound in the pores gives the cloth a softer and fuller feel than that of the original flannetlette and what perhaps is the most unexpected result is the fact that the material is considerably strengthened by the process.

"A series of tests made by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce proved that the tensile strength of flannelette is increased enarly 20 per ceet as the result of the introduction of the tin compound into the fiber.

"It seems to me that it is obvious that, if this process or some other process capable of giving the same protection from fire was adopted in the case of all inflammable cotton goods and especially in the case of material used for garments, many disastrous fires and the appalling loss of life, especially among young children, might be avoided, and it is for this reason that I have ventured to bring the subject of the permanent fireproofing of cotton goods to your notice."

BEACHEY BACK TO AIR

Lincoln Beachey, one of America's foremost aviators, who has re-considered his determination to quit the hazardous calling. Beachey, who is the inventor of the fatal spiral dip, has been roused by the stories coming from France, where Pegoud, a daredevil air pilot, has succeeded in causing his machine to turn turtle and still retain control of it. Beachey is of the opinion that he can duplicate the Frenchman's feat.

CHARGED WITH SLANDER.

Such is Accusation Against Representative Jones.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Representative Jones, of Virginia, chairman of the House committee on Insular Affairs, is charged with making false statements with "unwarranted and unpatriotic assaults upon the good names of Americans in the government of the Philippine Islands," and with "malicious and reckless slander" in a statement by W. Cameron Forbes, former governor-general of the islands, received today by members of the House.

Mr. Forbes' statement was written in Manila and is in reply to speeches made in the House by Mr. Jones in which he was attacked for inefficiency in the conduct of the government of the islands; charged with reckless expenditure of public funds, and with the protection of American officials engaged in graft.

After making a detailed answer to specific charges made by Representative Jones, Mr. Forbes asserts that Mr. Jones "has been a willing and cvredulous listener to soreheads."

MAY DETHRONE KING OTTO.

Mad Ruler May be Replaced by Prince Regent Ludwig.

Munich, Oct. 4.—Newspapers declare today that the Bavarian government has reviewed its plan for dethroning the mad King Otto and placing the Prince Regent Ludwig on the throne. It suggested this course at the time of the death of the old regent last year, but Prince Ludwig vetoed the movement.

The government has introduced a bill for increasing the Prince Regent's civil list, hoping to convince members of the clerical party that it would be cheaper to place him on the throne as King.

The exposition authorities suggested that the trip be deferred until conditions were more favorable.

Former Representative Harry St. George Tucker, of Virginia, is chairman of the American Commission.

NEGRO KILLED AT POCOMOKE

Thomas DuPree Fatally Wounded George Dixon Yesterday Afternoon at Pocomoke—Made His Escape.

Presumably because of a dispute about a woman with him at the time, Thomas DuPree, colored, yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the Pocomoke guano factory, a short distance up the river, shot George Dixon, also colored, just below the heart inflicting a fatal wound from which he died in a few minutes.

DuPree successfully made his escape, and Sheriff Cowan and his corps of deputies are giving hot pursuit. The police are also working on the case, and should he turn up in the city will arrest him.

Soon after the shooting occurred Chief Williams was notified and he immediately sent Officers C. E. Wood and G. H. Bullard to the Hilton bridge in the northern part of the city to arrest the negro should he come into the city. When night came on they were relieved by Plainclothes Officers B. W. Jacobs and Frank George who kept up a close watch last night.

Mr. S. L. Boyd, agent for the American Agricultural and Chemical Co., owners of the Pocomoke factory, as soon as he heard of the shooting which occurred on the grounds of the factory, went over to make investigation. He was able to find out few particulars except that DuPree had pulled out his pistol and shot the other negro apparently with no provocation.

He came back to the city about 9 o'clock, and swore out a warrant for DuPree's arrest before Justice Harriss. Sheriff Cowan was notified and also Coroner John J. Fowler. These gentlemen accompanied by Constable Davis, Deputy Sheriffs Kelly and Reynolds and Special Officer H. Mack Godwin left the city last night about 10 o'clock for the scene of the murder. They secured a boat and went up the Cape Fear river.

Mr. Boyd said last night that both negroes had been employed in the Pocomoke factory during the past week, and had been paid off yesterday at noon when the plant closed down for the afternoon. He stated that he had found Dixon to be a peaceable negro, and little given to acting the bully. He did not know where DuPree was from but thought that he came from Newbern. Other messages, however, stated that he was from Chadbourn.

A personal reward of $50 offered by Mr. C. M. Harnley, and also a reward of $50 authorized by Mr. Boyd as agent for the Agricultural company are out for DuPree's arrest. He is described as a black negro, weighing 165 or 170 pounds and about six feet high.

Coroner Fowler brought the body of Dixon back to the city last night in the boat, and will hold an inquest today. The officers will spare no effort to catch the negro though it was feared last night that they would not be able to get him before today, and possibly not at all.

The woman, who was with DuPree at the time the shooting occurred, is named Hattie Jones, and it is probable that she will be arrested as a material witness. She possibly may be held as an accomplice.

BROOKLYN DODGERS COMING.

Efforts Being Made to Get Ebbetts' team to Play in Wilmington.

Through efforts of Mr. John Bloome, and several other gentlemen, it is probable that Wilmington will have an opportunity to see the Brooklyn National Leaguers in action in a game here on either October 25th or November 1st.

Next week the Dodgers start on a tour through Pennsylvania, on their way to Cuba, where they play a dozen games during the month of November, and they will be at the nearest point to Wilmington the last week in October. Mr. Bloome is in correspondence with Col. C. H. Ebbetts, president of the Brooklyn club and will likely get a reply within the next few days, and the game will be arranged on one of the above dates.

Should the game be pulled off here, a strong team will be gotten together to play the Dodgers. Bert Kite will officiate behind the mask, and Harvey Bussey, who played here in the Eastern Carolina League four years ago, will be seen in the game. Pitcher Cates, of Raleigh, will be requisitioned to do the twirling honors, and the balance of the team will be picked from first-class local talent.

REPRESENTATIVES RETURN

Mr. Kellum and Mr. Bellamy, of Brunswick, at Home for Week-End—Talk of Local Measures in Assembly.

Both Representatives Woodus Kellum, of New Hanover, and George H. Bellamy, of Brunswick, reached here yesterday from the session of the General Assembly in Raleigh, to spend the week-end with relatives. They return Monday morning in time to attend the regular sessions of that day.

Mr. Kellum when seen yesterday talked interestingly of the work of the extra session of the Legislature and said that there was little to distinguish the extra from a regular session. Both Houses have been flooded with local bills from every section and rival delegations are besieging the capitol every day in some factional fight from various counties. The really big work of the extra session, Mr. Kellum says, has hardly gotten under way and he smiled when asked to predict the possible length of the extra session.

Mr. Kellum does not speak optimistically of the likelihood of a rejection of the proposal of the railroads for a half-settlement of the freight rate problem, though it is plainly to be seen that if the measures does get through, those who are pushing it will know there has been a fight. Many sections of the State have sent able men to Raleigh who get the comprehensive view of the rate question and Mr. Kellum thinks the fight will be strenuous and to the point. He was particularly gratified at the splendid showing made for the port through the committees Friday afternoon when Mr. Taylor and Mr. J. G. McCormick were the spokesmen for a strong delegation from this city.

Mr. Kellum states that the stock law legislation seems to be encountering little objection at this session, though a number of counties have been granted a vote on the question. "Wait until it gets to the Senate," was the only comment Mr. Kellum would make on the proposed beer bill for New Hanover. He said that the hearing before the Liquor Traffic Committee, which was decidedly adverse to such legislation, would be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. He was not advised to the size of any delegation that would go up from Wilmington for or against the bill.

TEACHERS MET YESTERDAY.

Elect Officers for Coming Year and Discuss School Matters.

The rural teachers of the county had their first meeting for the year yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the Court House. Prof. Washington Catlett, county superintendent of public instruction, was re-elected president of the association, and Miss Julia Cameron was elected secretary. There was a good attendance, all the teachers being present with the exception of three.

The work of the Teachers' Reading Circle was discussed and the work for the year outlined. The teachers gave reports of their work which showed an increased attendance this year. Greater interest in the schools has also been manifested by the parents. In several schools community meetings of the parents have been held which have proved to be very helpful in arousing interest in the schools. The next meeting of the Teachers' Association will be held November 8th.

At the close of the business session Dr. John Thames, assistant superintendent of health, explained the law applying to vaccination of school children. He stated that all children in the schools are required by law to be vaccinated, and that this work is done free of charge by the county. He said that he had vaccinated quite a number of children during the past two weeks. If the parents prefer it may be done by the family physician. This must, however, be done within the next two weeks either by the county physician or family physician or the children will be debarred from the public schools.

BOYS' BRIGADE WORK.

Young Men's Business Meeting Tomorrow Night—Reception.

The regular monthly meeting of Companies A and B, of the Boys' Brigade will be held tomorrow night when several matters of importance will be considered. About 15 new members will be added to Company B, some through promotion from Company C, and some new members. Every member is expected to be present as this is the first meeting of the Fall season. Several splendid speakers have been secured to deliver addresses during the Winter months and these will begin next week.

The social committee has completed arrangements for the opening reception, which will be held on Thursday night. This promises to be a most enjoyable affair. It will be a public function and every friend of this institution is cordially invited to spend the evening as guests of the Brigade. A splendid musical programme will be rendered, refreshments served and a general good time enjoyed.

The Friday night basket ball league will open up next Friday night, and some good sport is promised as all the teams are strong and in good condition for fast work, which will keep the spectators on edge from start to finish. This league will furnish some good games throughout the entire Winter.

The Tuesday night league will be organized on Wednesday night and as there are several young players in the Brigade who are enthusiastic over this game, they will put up some good exhibitions.

Giants Defeat Wrightsboro.

In an interesting game of baseball played on Burnett's diamond yesterday afternoon the Giants defeated Wrightsboro, the score being 8 to 7. Each team got three hits. The batteries for the Giants were Jones and James; for Wrightsboro, Seltter and Jarnigan. The Giants and the Immanuel Athletics are now tied for the first place in the independent League, and they will play at Burnett's diamond next Saturday afternoon to decide the championship.

The below written is a copy of one verse in a book entitled "Mother's Flowers, A Flag of Truth," copyrighted by T. L. Ruth. Will be sent to any address on receipt of 25 cents. Address T. L. Ruth, Wilmington, N. C. Any newspaper may copy this full adv.:

Oh, my brother minister, are you God's chosen servant, preaching to save His people from awful woe? Or are you only preaching from a theologian's standpoint, for the gain of silver and gold? Or are you asleep, with all your congregation? If so, you had better wake up, and preach from Revelations. (advertisement.)

RECAPITULATION OF TAXES

Total Taxable Property in New Hanover Valued at $19,066,674—Amount of Taxes is $213,078—Summary.

The total taxable property in New Hanover county is valued at $19,066,674 according to the returns made by the tax listers of the county, and the State Corporation Commission. This includes real and personal property, building and loan stock, steamboats, railroads, telegraph and telephone, bank stock and corporate excess. The total amount of taxes to be collected is $213,078.72. The total number of men subject to poll tax is 4,710.

Mr. J. A. Orrell, county auditor, and Mr. W. A. Williams, clerk of the Board of County Commissioners, yesterday completed the checking up of the books preparatory to turning them over to the sheriff Monday when the County Commissioners meet. Messrs. H. R. Aiken and J. C. Stephens, tax listers for Wilmington, have assisted Mr. Orrell and Mr. Williams in making out the books. It has been a big job, and they have worked faithfully.

Owing to the usual tardiness of the Corporation Commission in making their returns they were delayed in their work, and it has required extra work to get them out on time. However, they have proved themselves to be equal to the occasion, and they are now in readiness for the sheriff and his deputies to begin their annual collection of taxes.

A preliminary recapitulation was made several months ago in order that the board of County Commissioners might make their annual levy of taxes. This, however, was a rough calculation. The figures as given above have been checked and are as accurate as it is possible to have them. Following is a summary of the results as worked out by Mr. Orrell.

ELECTRICITY RUNS CLOCK.

Mr. D. A. Palmgren Perfects Invention After Many Years' Work.

Mr. D. A. Palmgren, of this city, has just perfected an invention of a clock which is run by electricity. For many years there have been clocks wound by electricity, but none that are run directly by means of batteries. Mr. Palmgren's clock has no main spring nor wheels except the dial wheel. This reduces the friction to a minimum, and consequently the clock, Mr. Palmgren says, will keep better time than a clock with many wheels.

Mr. Palmgren began working on a clock of this kind when he was living in his native country, Sweden, more than 30 years ago, and invented a clock which was run on the principle that the electrically wound clocks are now run. This, however, had so many wires in it that it was not practicable Later while living in Newfoundland he invented another clock, but this did not keep accurate time, and he never placed it on the market.

He has thoroughly perfected the clock that he has recently invented, and finds that it will keep perfect time. On account of the few parts it can be manufactured at a small cost. A 25-cent battery, he says, will run it for a year so that there is little cost for keeping it going. Every part is thoroughly adjusted so that there is no deviation of time. The balance wheel made of different kinds of metal adapts itself to the changing temperatures, and the running parts based on the same principle used in sending messages in over the telegraph is absolutely automatic.

Mr. Palmgren and Mr. A. O. Schuster are arranging to place the clock on the market. They have not yet definitely decided whether they will sell the patent rights to some clock manufacturer or organize a company for its manufacture.

THE RECORDER'S COURT.

John Day, White, Sent to White Roads for Four Months.

Because he didn't have the money to pay a fine and the costs in three cases against him in the Recorder's court, John Day, white, will have to serve four months on the roads unless some kind friend comes to his rescue. He and George Woebse, also white, submitted yesterday to a charge of gambling, and were fined $10 and the costs. Woebse paid up, and was discharged. Judgment was suspended upon payment of the costs in a charge of vagrancy against Day. He was also held for the payment of the costs in a former case against him in the Recorder's court. In default of the payment of the costs in the three cases and the fine the Recorder placed an aggregate sentence of four months on the roads. Buck Smith, colored, was charged with striking another negro, but an important witness was absent, and the State took a nol pros with leave.

Wilmington's Death Rate.

The records of the county health department show that Wilmington's temporary death rate for the month of September was 16.4 for white and colored. For colored the death rate was 25.01; for white the death rate was 8.4. The number of deaths for the year up to October 1st was 438; for same period in 1912 the number of deaths was 478, and for same period in 1911 the number was 595. The decrease in the number of deaths in 1912 from that of previous year was 117, and for 1913 the decrease was 40. The total decrease for the two years in the number of deaths for the nine months was 157. The increase in population was over 4,000 in the two years.

WHO IS BIANCHINI?

Every woman who wears softly clinging, beautifully colored, exquisitely designed Silks should know about him. In Paris, off Avenue de l'Opera, on the corner of a little street, is where Monsieur Bianchini works.

Into his shop come all the great Paris dressmakers and fashion makers, who seek the new and unusual, for Bianchini has done for Silks what no one else has done for fabrics since Jacquard invented his wonderful loom.

They say in Paris that Bianchini was born with a "silk brain," because it was he who first:

1. Invented the way to make Chiffon as soft as air.
2. Took the stiffness and noise out of Taffeta.
3. Created the family of soft, pliant Silks, like Messaline, Charmeuse, Crepe Meteor and Marquisettes.

Such Silks can be had at Polvogt's, now in the newest Fall shades and widths, at prices that are making Polvogt's Silk section favorably famous in this city.

Among the SILKS We Feature Are:

40-inch Crepe Meteor.

Fall Colorings, such as Wistaria, Brown, Navy Blue, Delf Blue, Pink, Light Blue, and American Beauty. Price, $2.50 yard.

AUTUMN MILLINERY

YOUR NEW HAT AWAITS YOU HERE.

Startling Charmingness — those are the two words that describe these wonderful new Fall Hats. The trimmings are so beautifully bizarre that printer's type cannot describe them. The materials are soft, supple Velvet, Plush, Satin and radiant Silk. The colors! Glory be; Gay, Gaudy, Brilliant! The dictionary is inadequate. Come and see them. It is a delight you'll never forget, and you'll be saying: "Oh!" and "Ah!" every moment after you enter the Polvogt Millinery Department.

Students' Tam o'Shanters, so much in demand; four-cornered "Kiss Me" styles.

TWO NOTABLE WEDDINGS AT WHITEVILLE, N. C.

Whiteville, N. C., Oct. 4.—Two notable marriages have taken place in Whiteville recently. The young couples sail from America for their new homes on the same day. Mr. and Mrs. McMillan sail from Seattle to China and Mr. and Mrs. Brewster from New York to Germany.

Miss Sarah Burkhead, daughter of Mrs. W. G. Burkhead, and Dr. J. F. Brewster, of Chester, Pa., became man and wife at the home of the bride's mother Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The wedding was a very quiet one, being witnessed by the immediate family and a few specially invited friends of the bride, and took place at the home of the bride's mother on Pinkney street. During the ceremony, which was impressively performed by Rev. J. P. Pate, pastor of the Methodist church, Mrs. C. V. Albright softly played suitable selections.

The bridal party entered the beautifully decorated parlors as follows: Little Miss Katherine Grace Lyon and Master Hugh Burkhead Kirkman, niece and nephew of the bride, came first, carrying ribbons with which they made an aisle through which the bridal party passed. Next came the groom with his best man, Dr. R. Y. Winters, of Raleigh; followed by Miss Daisy Warren Thompson, maid of honor. After they had taken their places at the altar the bride entered with her brother-in-law, Mr. Homer L. Lyon, of this place.

For the recessional the joyous march of Mendelssohn was played and the bridal party left immediately for the train. They will visit Washington, Philadelphia and Chester, Pa., sailing from New York on October 7th, to spend the Winter abroad.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a traveling suit of brown and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore blue canton crepe and carried pink roses.

Southern smilax, golden rod and long leaf pine were tastefully employed in decorating the house which was softly lighted with many candles.

The following out-of-town guests were present for the occasion: Mrs. J. K. Doughton, Mrs. C. V. Albright, Miss Daisy Warren Thompson and Dr. R. Y. Winters, of Raleigh; Miss Margaret Estelle Rae, of Edenton; Mrs. H. M. Kihkman and son, of St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. E. Gayle Burkhead, of Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Clark, of Elizabethtaown; Hon. and Mrs. J. A. Brown, of Chadbourn; and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stone, of Boardman. The gifts to the very popular couple were numerous and very beautiful.

INJURED IN RUNAWAY.

R. S. Tharp, Aged Citizen of Delgado, Thrown from Wagon.

Taking fright from a small piece of paper that blew across the road in front of him near 16th and Dock streets about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a horse attached to a wagon which Mr. R. S. Tharp was driving with a load of furniture for Mr. John Rogers at Delgado, took fright and ran out Dock street towards the mill village. Mr. Tharp, the driver, was thrown across the rails of the Tidewater Power Co., as the wagon struck the crossing at 16th and Dock, and was painfully, though not seriously injured. He is a man of more than 70 years and was hurried to the James Walker Memorial Hospital, where it was found that he had no broken bones but was right badly shaken up. Dr. Hooper, the superintendent, stated that he would probably be able to get out again in a few days. One wheel of the wagon was smashed and the shafts torn from the wagon.

Steamer That Went Aground Will Make to Port.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 4.—The steamship Spokane of the Pacific Coast Steamship line, which went ashore on the coast of Vancouver Island last night and got off this morning, will arrive here early tomorrow. She is steaming slowly.

Her double bottom saved the vessel.

All passengers were reported safe today on board the steamer LaTouche of the same line, which took them off. The LaTouche, a freighter, reported that it would bring the passengers here.

The Spokane replaced the steamship State of California which was wrecked in Gambier Bay, Alaska, last August with a loss of 31 lives.

LIQUOR SELLING CHARGED.

John W. Steerer, White, Steward on Cherokee, in Toils of Law.

For several months the weekly arrivals of the Clyde Line steamship Cherokee have been synonymous with more or less drinking on the street, and it, therefore, occasioned no surprise yesterday morning when John W. Steerer, white, chief steward on the steamer, was arrested charged with a violation of the prohibition law. The warrant was issued before Justice Harriss by Mr. H. Mack Godwin. The papers were served by Deputy Sheriff Reynolds.

Complaint was made some time ago of the sale of whiskey and other intoxicants on board the Cherokee, and it is understood that Steerer had been given strict orders not to dispense liquor from the ship. At any rate no one came to his rescue yesterday, and he had to go to jail in default of bond in the sum of $200.

The officers say that Steerer provided himself with a personal supply of intoxicants which he sold to the many thirsty ones in this vicinity, if he sold at all. Mr. H. Mack Godwin worked up the case against him, and he says that he will be able to prove by a half dozen witnesses that intoxicating liquors were sold by Steerer. Mr. Godwin says that he has several times seen persons go on board the vessel and get beer. The case will probably have a preliminary hearing before Justice Harriss tomorrow.

Late last night friends of Steerer put up a cash bond of $200, and he was released, and went back to the steamer.

A FINE MAP.

Messrs. Pruden & Battle Complete a Splendid Work Locally.

After weeks of hard work by engineers in the field and the completion of details in the office, Messrs. Pruden & Battle have completed their map of "Greater Wilmington" and copies of the same are now being distributed to subscribers. An area of about 20 square miles is shown in Greater Wilmington with blocks and distances that make the work invaluable to any office or business house. A new system of indexing and locating streets is carried out on the map, which is of unusually large size, clear in print and in the execution of detail. All the suburbs are shown with distances and ownership. There is also a showing of the location of churches, schools, industrial enterprises, public buildings, etc. The work is to be strongly commended and emphasizes what a wonderful growth and development has taken place here within the past year or two. As there are only a limited number of maps printed, those who desire to get a copy should do so at once.

DEEP WATER WELLS.

Councilman T. W. Wood Will Go to Richmond This Week.

Councilman T. W. Wood will leave this afternoon for Raleigh to present his side of the question in regard to the bill for the proposed change in the administration of the county health department, a bill for which was introduced last week by Representative Kellum. Later in the week he will go to Richmond, Va., to confer with the Sydnor Pump and Well Company about water conditions here. He will endeavor to secure from them a guaranteed contract for furnishing water to the city from deep wells. He will present the results of his conference to the Council later. He is quite sure that the only proper solution of the water question for the city of Wilmington is deep water wells, and does not expect to give up his fight for them until something definite is done.

SCHOOLS OPEN TOMORROW.

Everything in Readiness for City Schools to Begin Work.

After four months vacation the school children of Wilmington, several thousand in all, will bend their steps tomorrow morning to the different school buildings of the city to begin another year's work. The janitors have been at work for several weeks cleaning up the premises, the carpenters have repaired broken down desks and last, but by no means last, all the teachers have arrived and everything is in readiness for the opening exercises which take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

The teachers met in their respective buildings yesterday morning at 11 o'clock to outline plans for the year's work. The conferences were attended by all the teachers, and every detail incidental to opening the schools was taken up. New students who have not heretofore been enrolled reported at the different buildings yesterday and had their names placed on the register.

Supt. J. J. Blair has been in the city the past 10 days supervising the work of getting everything in readiness for the opening. He is greatly pleased with the outlook, and he will be just as happy as the most enthusiastic student to get back into the harness again. Prof. Blair is one of the foremost educators in the State, and has done much towards bringing the city's splendid system of schools to its present high standard.

Opening of Union Station.

Tomorrow is the day for the official opening of the new union station. Every citizen of Wilmington together with the thousands who travel in and out of Wilmington will rejoice that the old station which has so long been a blight upon the map of the city is to be removed, and that at last Wilmington has a station worthy of the respect of her citizens. While it has required a great deal of patience to wait so long for its completion this will be forgotten in the general feeling of gladness that a building which adds so much to the artistic beauty of the city is at last open to the public. The Atlantic Coast Line is to be congratulated for their handsome treatment of the city in erecting this splendid building.

Corn Show Open to All.

Mr. J. P. Herring, county farm demonstrator, stated yesterday that the farmers of the county are greatly interested in the corn show that is to held in Wilmington in November. One point that does not seem to be clear, he stated, is that the corn show is open to the boys from all the counties in this section. The impression seems to prevail that it is confined to New Hanover alone. Mr. Herring desires to emphasize the fact that it is not confined to this county, but it is open to everybody, no matter where they may live.

Report of Treasurer.

The report of the treasurer of the Associated Charities for Wilmington for the month of September shows receipts for the month as follows: New Hanover county, $200; unknown friend, $1; Mrs. W....., $2. The disbursements were as follows: Secretary's salary, $33.34; Catherine Kennedy Home, $12.50; groceries, $105; rent for those in need, $13.50; cash help, $3.20; telephone, $2.33; shoes, $1.50; railroad fares, $3.40; postage, $1.33; stationery, 25 cents.

Automobilist Still Missing.

Although the police worked diligently and Sheriff Cowan's force made a thorough investigation yesterday the fellow who Thursday night crashed into a wagon, driven by Mr. Chas. Borkenhagen, causing him serious injury, has not yet been apprehended. Mr. Borkenhagen had one eye so badly hurt that he may lose it. He has not been able to be out since the accident occurred.

Street Car Disturbance.

W. N. Fales, a white man, was arrested last night by Constable Davis, charged with assaulting Mr. W. T. Hinnant, a street car conductor, while on the car at Fifth and Castle streets, last night about 8 o'clock. Fales said that the encounter resulted from a dispute which he had with the conductor regarding the payment of his fare. He maintained that he had paid it, and the conductor said that he had not. It was because of the conductor's assertions, Fales said, that he struck him. Another charge of disorderly conduct was made against him. He was recognized by Justice Harriss for his appearance tomorrow when he will be tried on both charges.

GIANTS ARE READY.

Last Workout Yesterday Showed Them Hitting Above Average.

New York, Oct. 4. — Making the most of their last chance to tune up for the world's series in a regularly scheduled game, the Giant regulars had a lively workout against Philadelphia today and again shouted that a bat in their hands just now is a dangerous weapon.

Seldom this season have they run up a greater total of hits than the 18 they made off Brennan and Marshall. Manager McGraw watched the safe drives blister the turf with a gleam in his eye that evinced his satisfaction. Four of the solid raps were for extra bases. Fletcher hit for a home run, a double and a single in his five times up, while Fred Merkle put the second circuit drive of the day to his credit. George Burns joined the hitters for extra bases with a double.

In the field the Giants' play was snappy, only Doyle and Snodgrass showing lack of form. It was evident that Snodgrass' "charley horse" was bothering him and Doyle showed he still favored his shoulder somewhat in throwing.

There is little doubt now that Doyle will get into the series, probably in the first game, although the chances are that if McGraw sees his star second baseman is not in prime condition for the opening game Tuesday he will put Arthur Shafer on second in the second game and play Herzog at third. That Doyle will guard the keystone position from the start if McGraw believes the strain will not affect his latest works, however, seems a certainty, for it begins to look as if Snodgrass would not be able to get into the series. With both Doyle and Snodgrass out the Giants manager would face an outfield problem the solution of which might have an important effect on the series.

The Giants will have a final workout Monday at the Polo Grounds in an exhibition game with the Philadelphia Nationals.

CAPT. W. G. HALL DEAD.

Esteemed Cumberland Citizen, Sergeant-at-Arms of Senate.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Fayetteville, N. C., Oct. 4.—Wilbur G. Hall, sergeant-at-arms of the State Senate, chairman of the Board of Elections of Cumberland county and former commander of Cape Fear Camp of Confederate Veterans, died at his home here at 5 o'clock this morning. Mr. Hall, who has not been in good health all the Summer, was taken ill in Raleigh last Sunday, and was brought home Thursday. His illness took a decided turn for the worse early Friday morning.

He will be buried tomorrow afternoon at half past three from the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Hall was 72 years old. He was a brave Confederate soldier, being a member of the famous Starr's Battery.

Mr. Hall was the son of the late John H. Hall, a wealthy wholesale merchant of ante-bellum Fayetteville. His only surviving brother is Joe J. Hall, of Kisseemee, Fla. He married Miss Olivia P. Stedman, who, with a daughter and two sons, survive him. The children are Miss Robbie Hall, Douglass Hall, of Columbia, S. C., and John Hall.

COMPULSORY LAW.

Working Well With Whiteville Schools —Fine Attendance.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Whiteville, N. C., Oct. 4.—The good effect of the compulsory school law is shown in the attendance at the white schools here. Out of 119 children, aged 8 to 12, revised census 116, 112 are in school. Increased attendance upon school by children of other ages has followed the enforcement of this law. Reports from throughout the county are highly satisfactory, according to the efficient county superintendent.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER AFIRE.

Caught While Docked in New Orleans —Was Beached.

New Orleans, Oct. 4.—Fire broke out on the Norwegian steamship Hero as she was at the Orange street wharf here tonight and shortly before midnight it was necessary to move her up the river a short distance and beach her. The vessel rapidly was filling with water thrown on to the fire and it was feared she would sink. The fire was about extinguished, however. The blaze started in a deck load of creosoted timber and burned through the decks into the hold. The Hero cleared today for Tampico.

Cettinje, Oct. 4.—A partial re-mobilization of the Montenegrin army was ordered today by royal proclamation. The document says the step has been taken "in consequence of events transpiring on our Eastern frontier."

OPPOSE EXTRADITION.

Thaw Files Briefs With Thirty-three Telegrams from Governors.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 4.—Supplementary briefs opposing the extradition of Harry K. Thaw were filed with Governor Felker today. With the briefs were submitted telegrams from the Governors of 33 States, all of whom said they had no knowledge of a request ever having been made in their States for the extradition of a lunatic.

Thaw's attorneys set up that the requisition papers show no indictment against their client, that on the date of the alleged conspiracy to escape from the insane asylum at Matteawan, N. Y., he was insane and so legally incapable of committing a crime; and that on all the evidence it should be determined that the real purpose of New York State is to obtain the return of Thaw to Matteawan.

COTTON ADVANCES TEN POINTS

Fear of Bad Weather and Bullish Reports from Dry Goods Check Decline in Market and Causes General Advance.

New York, Oct. 4.—Apprehensions of renewed bad weather in the Southwest and very bullish reports from the dry goods trade, checked a decline in the cotton market during the day's early trading and prices advanced sharply on covering of shorts, trade buying or renewed bull support. The close was firm and from 9 to 14 points net higher.

Lower Liverpool cables, reports of increased Southern hedge selling, large estimates of the Russian crop and the reactionary movement which developed here after the publication of the October bureau, were probably responsible for the early setback. At any rate, after opening unchanged to two points lower, active months sold about 6 to 7 points under the final figures of yesterday or about 33 to 37 points below the recent high records. Houses with Southern and European connections, as well as local traders were sellers during the early trading and in addition to the unfavorable reports from Liverpool private cables from Germany reporting that the recent advance in prices had checked the demand from spinners. Weekly reviews of the domestic dry goods situation indicated a very active demand at advancing prices, however, and following the Western belt forecast for renewed rains over Sunday accompanied by lower temperatures, the market turned decidedly firmer. There was heavy covering on the advance, part of which seemed to come from some of the heaviest sellers of the earlier week and active months rallied some 16 to 18 points from the early low level. Closing prices were within a point or two of the best. Local brokers thought it possible that the final adjustment of tariff uncertainties had been partly responsible for the extreme activity reported in the dry goods market yesterday and claimed that buyers of cotton goods are showing increased confidence in prices owing to the situation with reference to raw material.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

Anxiety Causes Hesitation and Weakness in Stock Market During Week—Domestic Outlook Dependent.

New York, Oct. 4.—Anxiety over the future caused hesitation and intermittent weakness in the stock market during the week. This feeling had to do with the outlook for commerce and finance abroad and at home. The domestic outlook now is more than usually dependent on money market conditions elsewhere.

Banking authorities express satisfaction over the conduct of the banks in the last few months in having strictly limited the extension of credits, a course which leaves them in much better position to meet coming requirements than seemed possible six months ago. The failure of money conditions to relax in London, Berlin and Paris after the October settlements was a disappointment and the occasion of uneasiness.

The home market for steel products remains unsettled, buyers still holding off while price-concessions are extended. In pig iron curtailment of production rather than growth of demand is the factor in hardening prices. In Copper also depletion of stocks is affected by the reduction of output in connection with labor troubles in the Lake Superior region.

August reports of net earnings of railroads made so poor a comparison with last year's results as to discourage shareholders and all those looking for increased buying of materials by the railroads.

New York, Oct. 4.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they held $3,695,150 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $7,348,900 from last week.

GENERAL DECLINE IN MARKET

Opened Firm But Soon Depressed With Wavering Downward Trend. Predicted Cash Gain in Bank Surplus Error.

New York, Oct. 4.—A general decline in steel stocks was the day's conspicuous movement in securities. The losses of Republic Steel common and preferred; Colorado Fuel, Lackawanna Steel, Bethlehem Steel, common and preferred, and both of the United States Steel issues ranged from fractions to four points. In the remainder of the list the movement was waver[illegible] with a downward trend.

At the outset the tone was firm. Reading soon was depressed 2 points and St. Paul, Lehigh Valley and Amalgamated a point or more each. In the last few minutes, several issues were bid up quickly, reducing net losses on the day.

Weakness of the steel group was associated with a reduction in the price of steel billets announced today.

Additional unfavorable railroad reports for August were influential in weakening railroad shares.

Instead of the small cash gain predicted the bank statement revealed an actual loss of more than $9,500,000. The surplus was cut from $11,044,000 to $3,695,000.

Bonds steady. Total sales, par value, $770,000. United States 2s and Panama 2s declined a point and the 4s one-half on call on the week. Total sales were 159,300 shares, including C. & O. 400; L. V. 500; N. & W. 400; S. A. L. preferred 100; Southern Railway 300; S. R. preferred 500; T. C. 200; U. S. Steel 40,200.

WEEKLA COTTON REVIEW.

New Orleans, Oct. 4.—Unfavorable weather in the Western cotton belt and an improvement in the spot demand put the price of cotton this week to new high levels for the season. Toward the end of the week the market fell off, but at no time was real weakness displayed. The net result of the week's trading in the future market was an advance of 13 to 19 points. At the highest the trading months were 36 to 40 points over last week's close at the lowest they were 7 points over to 3 points under. The market was concerned chiefly with the Texas crop this week, to which continued rains did much damage. Unfavorable reports also came from Arkansas and portions of Oklahoma, Mississippi and Louisiana.

The bureau reports on conditions and ginning Thursday were not as bullish as expected and increased the liquidation. But for their nervousness over the Texas weather, bears would have taken advantage of the heavy selling for bull account. Another feature that steadied the market was the demand for spot cotton.

In the local spot department prices gained one-eighth of a cent, middling closing at 14c against 13 7-8 last week and 11 3-16 this week last year.

Sales on the spot amounted to 3,271 bales against 4,025 last week and 3,870 this week last year; sales to arrive amounted to 6,288 bales against 5,475 last week and 4,700 this week last year.

YOU ARE THE JURY

Hear the Testimony of Wilmington People and Decide the Case.

Doan's Kidney Pills are on trial—are being tried every day for weak kidneys—for exhausting kidney backaches. What is the verdict? Read Wilmington testimony—personal experiences of Wilmington witnesses. There can be only one verdict—a chorus of approval.

Mrs. J. E. Marshburn, 516 Castle St., Wilmington, N. C., says: "My back and kidneys were in bad shape and I had dull pains through my loins, together with headaches and kidney weakness. In the morning when I got up, I was tired and languid and had but little strength to begin the day's work. After I had used part of a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Bellamy's drug store, I improved and it was not long before my kidneys were restored to their proper working order. I have no hesitation in re-endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills. They are certainly a good bachache and kidney medicine."

WILL SUCCEED UNDERWOOD

Kitchin will be chairman of the Ways and Means Committee after March 4th, 1915.

Like Senator Simmons, before the Senate was re-organized, Mr. Kitchin is the ranking member of this important committee. He will be elected not only chairman but floor leader of the Democratic majority of the lower branch of Congress.

It is true A. Mitchell Palmer, whose chief distinction is a handsome face and a massive growth of grey hair, and Robert Henry, of Texas, who has antagonized the Wilson administration since he failed to be appointed to a cabinet position, are aspirants for the place but they haven't a chance to succeed. Claude Kitchin is by far the best fitted man on the committee to take the place which will be vacated by Mr. Underwood, and like Senator Simmons, he will win without any serious opposition.

Hundreds of telegrams came to Senator Simmons today congratulating him for his success in passing the Democratic tariff bill. These messages came from all sections of the country, and they were not confined to Democrats alone; not a few Republicans and Progressives wired the North Carolina Senator that they were satisfied with the bill and congratulated him upon bringing the measure to a successful termination in the Senate.

It is believed that by Tuesday, possibly Monday, Senator Simmons will ask that Francis D. Winston, of Windsor, and W. T. Dortch, of Goldsboro, be appointed district attorney and United States marshal, respectively, for the eastern half of North Carolina.

It is not quite clear as to the assistant attorney for the East, but it is believed that A. M. McLean, son of Dan Hugh McLean, of Lillington, will be named for this place. It is also believed that Senator Overman will ask that W. C. Hammer be named district attorney for the West and at the same time will offer State Chairman Charles A. Webb the marshalship for the same territory. Probably Manley McDowell will be asked to accept a place as deputy marshal or some other place paying a better salary. Should Mr. Webb decline the marshalship, it is pretty well settled that Mr. McDowell can have it.

Underwood's Announcement.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Representative Oscar Underwood, majority leader of the House, issued a formal statement late today announcing his candidacy for the United States Senate from Alabama to succeed the late Joseph F. Johnston.

Representative Underwood's statement follows:

"For the best part of ten terms I have served the people of the Ninth Alabama district, in the Congress of the United States. No man has ever been treated better by a constituency than I have been and in return I have tried to serve them faithfully and loyally. Now that I have determined not again to be a candidate for Congress from the Ninth district, I wish to express to my friends and constituents my sincere appreciation of their friendship and loyal support of my political fortunes in the past twenty years.

"With the enactment of the tariff bill, I have completed the work in the House that had been my ambition to accomplish. Before retiring from public life, I should like to have the honor of representing the people of the State of Alabama in the Senate of the United States and have therefore concluded to announce myself as a candidate for the Senate in the Democratic primary election.

"If elected I will devote my entire time and attention to the duties of the office and endeavor to faithfully and loyally serve the people of Alabama."

Mr. Underwood will enter the Democratic primaries in Alabama next Spring with several other prominent Alabama Democrats, including Representative Henry D. Clayton and Richmond P. Hobson. It also is understood that Representatives James T. Heflin may be a candidate.

It had been known for some time that Representative Underwood would be a candidate for the vacant seat, but he withheld the announcement until after the Democratic tariff revision became an accomplished fact.

Representative Clayton was appointed by Governor O'Neal to fill out Senator Johnston's unexpired term, but his credentials never have been passed on by the Senate and for weeks it has almost been certain they would not be accepted. Democratic leaders in the Senate are almost unanimous in the opinion that Governor O'Neal had no authority to make the appointment.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 4.—Nathan L. Miller, formerly State Senator from Jefferson county, and a prominent attorney, tonight announced his candidacy for Congress to succeed Representative Underwood.

COTTON GOODS REVIEW.

New York, Oct. 4.—Cotton goods prices are rising fast and demand for goods is broad. Buyers are asking for goods for immediate delivery. Stocks are smaller than in many years. Staple domestics are particularly scarce.

Sales of print cloths at Fall River reached 200,000 pieces for the week, of which 70,000 were for spot shipment.

Wide print cloths have been very active. Drills and sheetings are in full demand. Bleached cottons again have been advanced. Ginghams are strong.

Duck has been advanced another 2 1-2 per cent. Orders for fine and fancy cottons are coming in more freely for Spring delivery. Underwear and hosiery are in active demand for Fall and Spring. Yarns have been advanced sharply.

Prices on cloths: Print cloths 28 inch, 64x64s 4c; 64x60s 3 3-4; 38 1-2 inch 64x60s, 5 1-2 to 5 5-8. Brown sheetings, Southern standards 8 1-4 to 8 1-2; denims, nine ounce 14 1-2; tickings 8 ounce 14; standard prints 5 1-4; dress ginghams 9 1-2; staple ginghams 6 1-2.

MISS GRATIOT DEAD.

Was Niece of Builder of Fortress Monroe.

St. Louis, Oct. 4.—Miss Marie Theresa Gratiot, 73 years old, niece of Gen. Charles Gratiot, who built Fortress Monroe, Virginia, died here today in the house in which she was born. The house is situated on land granted to Miss Gratiot's grandfather, who financed the Lewis and Clark Expedition to the Northwest.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 4. — In the opening game of the Navy's season here today the midshipmen and University of Pittsburgh played a scoreless tie. The game was bitterly contested, and for the most part was fought out on old-fashioned line plunging.

Eastern and foreign holders of American Naval Stores Company stock have sold to a bunch of local dealers at Savannah, according to a report Friday night.

HOW YOUNG DIXON WON SCHOOL MEDAL

Being the son of a great man isn't the easiest job a young man can have. Somehow the world in which he finds himself expects him to deserve a share in his father's glory, if only by reflection. It isn't easy, bot on the other hand the position has its advantages—the father can always be relied upon to furnish the luminance necessary for the reflection.

Thomas Dixon, 3rd, realizes all this. His father is the celebrated novelist and playwright, whose works, "The Clansman," "The Leopard's Spots," "The Sins of the Father," "The Southerner," etc., have earned world-wide fame. (Mr. Dixon's own production of "The Leopard's Spots" by the way, will be seen here at the Academy the evening of October 16th.

Young Dixon attended school at Pawling Institute, a famous New York academy, and tried in every way he could to be worthy of the name he bore. He succeeded very well in being popular with his classmates and his instructors, did something in athletics and pursued his studies with diligence.

But the school really expected something startling from Thomas. His father was one of the most talked of men in America, whose every publication, act or utterance created a sensation. Surely his reflection should show something of this.

It did.

At Pawling the announcement was made that the annual oratorical contest would be held on a certain date. The students were much excited over the prospect. What boy does not like to make speeches?

Thomas Dixon, 3rd, entered the contest. He meant to win the medal, and started his work of preparation by boarding a train for New York City.

He went straight to his father whom he found in the throes of composition, at work upon the manuscript of "The Sins of the Father."

It takes a brave man to invade the den of a literary lion when he is like that, but Tom had the courage, and in he went.

"Dad," he blurted, "they're going to give a medal at school for the best speech, and I'm going to win it.'

"You don't say", replied the novelist, reluctantly laying aside his pen.

"Yes, I am," said the boy firmly. "I think they kind of expect me to, and I've just simply got to make good—for your sake as well as mine," he added significantly.

"That's the proper spirit anyway," said the father. "But why do 'they' expect you to win?"

"Well," replied Tom, a little diffidently, "you're about the best speech maker in these parts, and—and I'm your son, and I look like you, and—oh, you know how it is, Dad."

"Yes, I reckon I know how it is, son," said the father, smiling at the boy's ingenious flattery. "What can I do to help you out?"

The youngster thought a moment before replying. Finally he said:

"I want to give 'em something good, dad. Something with a punch in it, that'll make 'em sit up and take notice. Say," he cried struck by a thought, "What was the best speech you ever made"

Mr. Dixon looked at his son quizzically, his deep set eyes twinkling. "I suppose you want to 'go and do likewise'?" he asked.

"That's the idea," said young Tom. "You know it doesn't make any difference what kind of a speech it is, or whose, as long as I deliver it myself in the competition."

"Yes," said the father gravely, "I think they would want you to do that much anyhow. Let me see, now," he went on thoughtfully, "a speech with a punch, that will make 'em sit up and take notice, eh? I have it! The very thing, boy."

He began to rummage among the papers and manuscripts scattered about on his desk. He found what he was looking for and handed Tom some typewritten sheets.

"This ought to fill the bill," he said. "It's the best speech I ever made, but one I have never delivered."

The boy read what his father had given him. He recognized it.

"Why, this is Gaston's speech, from 'The Leopard's Spots'!" he cried.

"Exactly," said the author, "and you shall have the honor of being the first one of the Dixons to utter it." He laughed as new thought came to him.

"Before a Northern audience, too. How do you like the idea?"

"It's the goods, dad," shouted the young man. "Hurrah for Dixie! Hurrah for Dixon! and Hurrah for everything that's got a Dix on it!"

He grabbed up his hat and rushed back to school.

The day of the contest came at last. Proud mothers and fathers, friends and, of course, sweethearts journeyed to Pawling to hear the speeches and to cheer on their favorites.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dixon, Sr., were there. Seated well down in front the famous author and his wife sat and waited for their young hopeful to come forth and crate.

But Tom was foxy. All the Dixons have been good generals or stage managers and he was no exception. He believed in letting the other fellow do the charging. He waited; held his fire.

Some of the boys made splendid speeches and were cheered to the echo. The judges of the contest gave them high marks.

Mrs. Dixon began to get nervous, fearing for her boy's success. Leaning over to her husband she whispered:

"Oh, he'll never make it. I wish he wouldn't speak at all. They've already decided to give the medal to that last boy."

"You just wait, mother," said Mr. Dixon, patting her hand reassuringly, "Just wait. Tom's all right."

Finally Tom was announced and a thrill of anticipation went through the audience. The mother gripped her husband's hand hard.

The young man rose. For a moment he stood silent, waiting for the applause which greeted him to subside. Tall as he was, like his father, with the same piercing eye, the same graceful carriage and commanding presence. When he began to speak his voice filled the hall so that each hearer could understand every word.

"Gentlemen of the convention," he began, "the question before you is; 'Shall North Carolina with her centuries of proud history—North Carolina, the home and birthplace of American Democracy, sink at last, into the filth of Negroid corruption'?"

At the conclusion of the first sentence the audience was electrified. Every ear was strained so as not to miss a word. Tom's text had "made 'em sit up and take notice."

He went on: "What is our condition today in the dawn of the 20th century?" Our State lies prostrate beneath the heel of the negro! Our city governments are debauched by his vote—his insolence threatens our womanhood—and our children are beaten by negro toughs on their way to school, while we pay his taxes. Shall we tolerate negro inspectors of these schools, negroes in charge of white institutions? Shall we tolerate the arrest of white women by negro officers and their trial before negro magistrates?

"Let the manhood of the white race, with its 4,000 years of history, answer these questions! Gentlemen, it is no longer a problem of bad government. We lag behind the age, dragging this black corpse to which he are chained. Who shall deliver us from the body of this death.

"Hear me, men of my race, Norman and Celt, Anglo and Saxon, Huguenot and German martyr blood! We must rise, strike down the negro as a ruling power, and restore to our children their birthright!

"Is the negro worthy to rule over you? A hundred years ago in Hayti and San Domingo he rose in servile insurrection and butchered 50,000 white men, women and children. He has ruled these beautiful islands since. Did he make progress with the example of white civilization before him? No. But yesterday we received reports of cannibalism in Hayti."

Tom paused. He was delivering a speech that had made history and he wanted to note the effect it was having on his hearers. They sat spellbound, it was something new for them, this problem, most of them were hearing it for the first time; the judges' pencils lay idly in their laps—they were forgetting to grade the young declaimer.

Tom continued: "A government of wealth, virtue and intelligence of the community by the debased and the criminal is a return to barbarism to which no race of free men can submit.

"Nations are made by men, not by paper constitutions and paper ballots. We are not free because we have a constitution. We have a constitution because our fathers, who cleared the wilderness and dared the might of kings, were freemen!—it was in their blood—the evolution of centuries of struggle and sacrifice!

"We grant the negro the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, if he can be happy without exercising kingship over the white man, or dragging us down to his level. But if he cannot find happiness except in lording it over a superior race, then there is not room for us both on this continent! And we will fight it out on this line, if it takes a hundred years, two hundred, five hundred—or a thousand! It took Spain eight hundred years to expel the Moors. But when the time comes the Anglo-Saxon can do in one century what the Spaniard did in eight.

"When I refer to the negro's supremacy, I use words in their plain meaning. Negro supremacy means the rule of a party in which ... predominate.

"I call your attention to one typical county of over 40 thus degraded in this State—the county of Craven, whose quaint old city was one the capital of the Commonwealth. What are the facts? Permit me, gentlemen, to read you the list of negro office holders of Craven county—they include a Congressman, a member of the Legislature, a register of deeds, the city attorney, the coroner, two deputy sheriffs, two county commissioners, a member of the school board, three road overseers, four constables, 27 magistrates, three city aldermen, and four policemen. There are 62 negro officials in this county of 12,000 inhabitants, and their member of the Legislature is a convicted felon. The white people represent 95 per cent of the wealth and intelligence of the community, pay 95 per cent of its taxes, and are voiceless in its government.

"Would a county in Massachusetts submit to such infamy? No! Will the children of Lexington, Concord, and Bunker Hill demand such submission from the children of Washington and Jefferson?

"I confess, I am in a sense narrow and provincial. I love mine own people. Maudlin sentiment is the froth of civilization, as crime is its dregs. Race, and race-pride, are the ordoinances of life. A true citizen of the world loves his own country and his own people.

"So I canfess I love my people. I love the South. The stolid, silent South that sneers at paper-made policies and scorns public opinion. The South, old-fashioned, medieval, provincial, worshipping the dead, and raising men rather than making money—family-loving, home-building, tradition-ridden, if you please. The South, cruel and cunning, when fighting a treacherous foe with brief volcanic bursts of wrath and vengeance—yes! The South eloquent, bombastic, romantic, chivalrous, proud, kind and hospitable. The South, generous and reckless, never knowing her own interests, but living her own life in her own way. Yes, I love her. In my soul are all her sins and virtues. And with it all she is worthy to live.

"The courage of the Celt, the nobility of the Norman, the vigor of the Viking, the energy of the Anglo, the tenacity of the Saxon, the daring of the Dane, the gallantry of the Gaul, the Freedom of the Frank, the earth-hunger of the Romans are all yours by the lineal heritage of blood, from sire and dame through centuries of culture. Will you halt now, and surrender to a mob of negroes?

"I repeat: is the negro worthy to rule over you? Ask the history of the 3,000 years he has owned the continent of Africa. For centuries he has crunched acres of diamonds beneath his bare black feet, yet he never picked one up from the dust until a white man showed him its glittering light. His land swarmed with powerful and docile animals, yet he never dreamed a harness, cart or sled. A hunter by necessity, he never made a weapon worth preserving beyond the moment of its use. He lived as an ox, content to graze for the hour. With league on league of ocean and miles of inland seas, for 4,000 years, he watched their surface ripple beneath the wind, heard the sweep of the storm over his head, gazed on the dim horizon calling him to worlds that lie beyond, stole his food, worked his wife, sold his children, ate his brother, content to drink, sing, dance, and sport as the ape. And this creature, half child, half animal, the sport of impulse, whim and conceit, pleased with a rattle, tickled with a straw, whose speech knows no word of love, whose passions once aroused are as a tiger's. They have set this thing to rule over Southern manhood—merciful God! It surpasses human belief!

"I ask you, my people, freemen, North Carolinians, to rise today and make good your right to live. The time for platitudes is past. Let us, as men, face the world and say what we mean.

"This is a white man's government, conceived by white men, maintained by white men through every year of its history—and by the God of our fathers, it shall be ruled by white men! If this is treason, let them that hear it make the most of it. From the eighth day of November, we will not submit to negro domination another day, another hour, another moment. Back of every ballot is a bayonet, and the red blood of the man who holds it! Let cowards hear, and remember this. Man has never yet voted away his right to a revolution."

Tom raised his hands high above his head and with ringing force delivered his concluding sentence.

"Citizen kings, I call you to the consciousness of your kingship."

For a moment after he had finished there was silence—the greatest tribute to his powers an orator can excite.

Then the storm broke. Cheer after cheer for Tom rang out from his schoolmates and round after round of applause from the visitors.

It was not until after the conclusion of the exercises that the judges

BUREAU SAVES MILLIONS

During First Six Months of This Year Unique Bureau Brought About Decrease of 1850—Tuesday the Worst Day.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

New York, Oct. 4.—That fire prevention is a pronounced success is evidenced by the record of Gotham's new prevention bureau. Upon its establishment 77 inspectors were put on the job and they made 132,601 inspections. Resulting therefrom were 64 arrests and 40 convictions. One of these firebugs—professionally known as "Izzy the Painter"—confessed to starting 300 fires. During the first six months of 1193 there were 6,605 fires in New York and fire losses aggregatmonths of 1913 there were 6,605 fires and $5,819,001 of losses for the corresponding period of 1912; showing a reduction in fires of 1,850 and in losses of $2,238,686. In this prevention bureau has been worked up from complete card records of every fire a system of maps and charts that are most comprehensive and valuable and furnish some curious and interesting fire figures. It appears as a regular thing that more fires take place on Tuesday than on any other day. January is the month of most fires, and September takes last place. The favorite fire hour is between 8 and 9 in the evening—and worth noting is the fact that Paris records show the same. Three years of fires have been tabulated under this system and, strange to relate, the various sections of the city all show practically the same percentage of each year's fires.

Penny lunches are being provided this year for all of the 25,000 or more hungry children attending New York's public schools by a felfare bureau which has recently been privately endowed with the income from $1,000,000. These lunches are served from a number of central kitchens located conveniently for taking care of from one to five schools each. For his penny the pupil receives a bowl of vegetable soup with bread, which in itself is a well balanced meal. The youngster may also spend additional pennies for home-made cookies, sandwiches, bananas, etc., but not until after partaking of the nourishing warm soup. The menus are, of course, varied according to the different nationalities served—kosher food where Jewish children predominate, macaroni and menestra in Italian neighborhoods and so on. These welfare kitchens have already put out of business most of the basket and pushcart vendors of cheap and unwholesome candies and cakes, pink popcorn, pickles and similar trash, which means that the teachers' medicine chests will from now on be less in play.

The newest means of livelihood has been happily hit upon by a bright New York woman who terms herself a "chaperone-chauffeuse." According to her story, when the necessity of choosing an occupation arose, she had no capital save her clothes and her auto. So fond was she of her car that, in thinking of ways and means of keeping it, she conceived the idea of making it pay for itself. The idea of chaperoning school girls, young women and out-of-town parties in shopping and helping them in whatever connection a car might be useful met with immediate response and her services were in such demand that the very first month she cleared more than $500. Naturally other lines of service were found from time to time and now she has a busy and well paid staff of highly intelligent young women who can not only run a car but are well informed and tactful, familiar with the shops, tearooms, hotels and

THEATRICAL

The Academy will have open house all this week and will present the very unusual, but decidedly attractive in musical comedy at popular prices. The engagement will be inaugurated tomorrow night, the attraction being the well known Lews and Lake Company, starring clever, dashing Marjorie Lake.

Following this week the Academy will offer a trio of the most talked of attraction on the road and each will, no doubt, be greeted by a large audience. Crowded into next week will be the noted actress, Miss Annie Russell, and her appearance will be one of the notable events of the season; presentation of the great drama, "The Underworld," which made a greater hit than "Within the Law," and Thomas Dixon's "Leopard's Spots." The order in which they will appear is

A Great Ensemble Number in the Merry Musical Comedy, "She Came From Kokomo," at Academy Tomorrow Night.

Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, of next week.

Musical Comedy This Week.

In the appearance all this week of the Lewis and Lake Musical Comedy Company will be found an attraction of great merit and one that will appeal especially to theatre-goers, as popular prices—real popular figures, 10, 20 and 30 cents—will prevail, and when it is taken into consideration that musical comedy will be given at these figures the engagement will fall not far short of marvelous, in the opinion of amusement-lovers. The company numbers twenty-five and will give an entire change of bill nightly. Thus a new music show will be offered each night, and on Saturday afternoon the only matinee of the engagement will be presented. Seats for the opening night—tomorrow night—went on sale at J. Hicks Bunting's drug store yesterday morning and the scale is 30 cents for seats downstairs, 20 cents for the balcony and 10 cents for the gallery.

The company has such well known musical successes in its reportoire as "She Came from Kokomo," "The Country Boy," "The Girl From Chicago," etc. During the action of each play clever specialties are introduced, while the costumes are pretty, as well as the scenery, and the organization carries a great quantity of electrical effects, which add great charm. Miss Lake is supported by a capable company, headed by the popular comedian, Sol H. Carter.

Coming of Miss Annie Russell.

Just one week from tomorrow night—to be precise as to date, October 13th—one of the most distinguished actresses on the American stage, Miss Annie Russell, supported by a New York company, will appear, likely appearing in "She Stoops to Conquer," as the actress is giving a magnificent revival of some of the old, but ever-dear plays. This will indeed be one of the rare, brilliant treats of the season, and Wilmington theatre-goers should realize it in time. Miss Russell took the larger Virginia cities by storm, although in Norfolk her business was poor.

Show With a Big Moral.

"The Girl of the Underworld," a play dealing with life in a big city, by Jack Gorman, will be presented here at the Academy of Music Tuesday, October 14th. The story is one of how easily a girl can be trapped into a life of shame and disgrace, under circumstances most appalling and vital for every good citizen to know, especially those who have daughters. At no time during the action of the play can one's senses be offended for the story is told in a manner that is free from any objectionable situations or lines. The company presenting the play has been very carefully chosen, while the scenic production is one that meets every requirement.

"The Leopard's Spots."

"The Leopard's Spots," which comes to the Academy for matinee and night, October 16th, is a dramatization of the celebrated novel of that name by Thomas Dixon. The story has been put into play form by the author himself and the production was staged under his personal supervision.

In the light of the facts above setforth it may be seen that "The Leopard's Spots" is a play which enjoys the distinction of being set before the public exactly as its author intended it should be—a rare thing in theatricals. The play has met with tremendous success everywhere.

At the Bijou.

Yesterday was a daisy occasion all around at the popular Bijou. There was a big show and big crowds. The only thing small was the price, which will ever remain tiny—5 cents. Tomorrow the favorite amusement spot inaugurates a new week, and the Monday show will be a swell one, which will give splendid impetus to the week directly on the start. One of tomorrow's great film features will be Lubin's "His Conscience," with two noted artists, Earl Metcalf and Ornal Hawley, in the leading roles. It is a great moral film, that will strike fire from every heart. It is a modern "Raffles" story, with the scenes first laid in England and then in America.

Another topliner in the way of a photoplay tomorrow is Pathe's "The Accidental Shot", being the story of the moonshine zone, in which a revenue officer and a daring young woman play the stellar parts. It has thrills sufficient to suit everyone.

Among the other big numbers on at the Bijou tomorrow will also be the latest Pathe Weekly, which will carry the onlookers around the world, to view current events of the past fortnight. It ends with a rousing comic section, which will cause roars of wholesome laughter.

At The Grand Theatre.

Ready for the new week is the cozy, handsome Grand. However, this theatre is always ready to delight the people of Wilmington, who never fail to flock Grandward and thereby immensely enjoy themselves. Leading tomorrow's great show, with which The Grand will open up an even bigger week (artistically) than the past one, will be "A Light On Troubled Waters," which is Edison's latest and most pretentious effort. It is a story of heroism and of thrills along the coast, with a gang of workers playing an important part. It is most elaborate in presentation.

There are two comedies on tomorrow that are funny from first to last. Lubin's "Trimming a Boob," is a great scream. "Bob Green," a hayseed, goes to the city and gets "trimmed" proper. The other smile film is Pathe's "$1,000 Reward." A discharged cowboy turns bandit and holds up a real bandit, instead of a person who has money. There is also a fine touch of the dramatic to the story.

Of course, everything is comfortable at The Grand and the price only 5 cents, afternoon and night. Buy a book of 12 Grand Theatre tickets for 50 cents.

BURGAW NEWS NOTES.

Superior Court Adjourns—Close of a Branch Store—Arrest.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., October 6.—Superior Court adjourned for the term Thursday afternoon, after cleaning up the docket of everything ready for trial. The last case tried was Batson against the Wilmington Iron Works, in which the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

The people regret to learn that the branch store here of A. B. Croom, Jr., Co. will be closed within a few days, the Wilmington business of the firm having grown to such proportions as to demand the time and attention of all concerned in the business. While our people regret to lose the business here, yet they are grateful to know the firm is prospering so well in its new home.

Mr. W. C. Myers went to Dunn Thursday with a warrant for the arrest of one Ellis Thomas, for obtaining money under false pretense. Thomas was in business here for a while, and sold out last March to Mr. Myers, representing that he owed nothing on his stock. Since then, several claims against him have been presented to Mr. Myers, and suit has been instituted against Myers in some of them, hence he is after Thomas.

Capt. R. P. Paddison and Mr. J. C. Pretlow, of Point Caswell, were here today. The captain was looking after the monument business, which is still in an unsettled condition. It is greatly to be regretted that there should be a hitch over the location, after so much time and money was spent in securing the monument.

That Pender county will be forced to adopt the stock law seems to be a foregone conclusion. Sampson county having already adopted it, with the almost certainty of Bladen and Duplin doing likewise, there is no other course open to Pender, but to do so also, as Pender could not afford to fence against these other counties, and besides, if it could, it will be only a matter of a short time when Pender would have to adopt the law anyway. These being facts, the sooner it is adopted in Pender the better, and there is no use in holding an election on it, for whether the people want it or not, they will be obliged to have it and there is absolutely no escape from it. Time alone will tell whether it will be a good thing for them or not.

Four candidates stood the civil service examination here for rural letter carrier Saturday.

Miss Fannie Noel, of Mississippi, arrived here this week to take the position in the High School, made vacant by the resignation of Miss Goldston. Miss Noel is a niece of ex-Governor Noel, of Mississippi, and also a niece of Mrs. Faison Peirce, of Warsaw.

Messrs. Armstrong and Devane of the Board of County Commissioners, were here yesterday on their way to inspect the Northeast river bridge.

It is hoped the people will respond to the Governor's appeal to work the roads November 5th and 6th. If everybody will turn out and throw dirt those two days, the roads in Pender can be vastly improved.

GLIMPSE OF SEAMY SIDE.

Man and Wife, Separated, Meet in Police Headquarters, Drunk.

(Owensboro (Ky.) Messenger.)

"My God, that's my wife. Let me talk to her," shrieked William Rudisell, as the police carried a pretty girl, made hideous by liquor, into the police headquarters, shortly after midnight. The girl, almost helpless, vainly tried to fling her arms around the prisoner's neck, but jerked loose by the officers, she was hustled into one of the cells, muttering incoherently, "I know it is my Bill talking to me."

Following the strange meeting of the couple, Rudisell unfolded a story that surpasses anything in human interest ever told at the police station.

Rudisell told the officers his home was at Hatfield, Ind. He said that he had come to Owensboro for the purpose of finding his wife, who had deserted him in the Spring. He informed the police that he had written letters to the police asking their aid in finding his wife. Unwillingly he admitted that he had taken a few drinks, because he was worn out from worry. He said he heard the police talking about Sonia Rudisell, but he did not think it was his wife they were talking about.

While being interviewed Rudisell said that he was married to the girl, who was a Miss Holter, a little over five years ago. After 14 months of married life, a baby boy was born. For three years they lived happily together. Then the girl grew tired of married life. She deserted him and her baby last Spring. The boy, Rudisell said, was being taken care of by a Mrs. McCassell of Evansville. Rudisell said he was a hard-working man and came to Owensboro to find his wife. He cried bitterly when he talked about his four-year-old boy.

Probably the only one of its kind is the busy and prosperous little theatre that is a part—and no unimportant part—of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension over in the Greenpoint section of this city. There is nothing queer about this church theatre, for it is the outward expression of an inner ideal of the pastor, Rev. Walter E. Bentley, himself formerly a Shakespearean actor. Believing that the theatre has such a powerful influence for good that the church instead of pulling away should work in harmony toward a common end, the Rev. Bentley was the moving spirit in the organization and extension of the Actors' Church Alliance, whose cards may now be found on the "back stage" walls of probably every theatre in America. The Ascension Theatre Company is well equipped, having a real stage, galleries, opera chairs, drop curtains and enough shifting scenery and settings to stage very effectively the fifty-odd Shakespearean plays that have been essayed, besides a number of old English comedies and newer plays. The gold cross which occupies the place of honor in the decorations of the proscenium arch is said to be the only cross in the world which faces an audience above a company of play actors. This enterprise is claimed to be a practical solution of the church entertainment problem. Here the congregation is not bored by fairy pageants or coaxed to buy nick-nacks they know to be worthless, but for their dimes and quarters receive such good return that the soliciting of patronage is unnecessary.

* * *

A most extraordinray call upon the government is the petition which has been sent to Washington by the bankers and brokers of Wall Street to have a regiment of Federal infantry stationed on Governor's Island, where it would be in position to respond in twelve minutes to a cry for help in time of trouble in the financial district. This uneasiness is not due to any prospect of another panic. Wall Street has amply demonstrated its ability to take care of itself in any such crisis. But they shudder to think of what would become of the billions of money and securities now safe in their strong boxes, should the district be visited by a devastating earthquake or conflagration or, an attack from without with high explosives. Who would control the mob that would naturally swarm the ruins? It would take too long to get the National Guard from homes to armories and from armories to the scene of trouble, and even then, it is claimed, the Guard would not be so well equipped or endowed with the same sort of efficiency. So some five hundred bank presidents, brokers, merchants and others—all the combined interests of the "billion dollar alley"—have started the petition Washingtonward.

Wonderful Works Of Sculpture At The Panama-Pacific International Exposition

World's Famous Sculptors Produce Marvels In Statuary to Be Shown at Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, 1915.

WONDERFUL groups of sculpture, now being reproduced upon the grounds of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, show the plastic art at the very highest stage of its development. Sculpture played an important part at the great World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893, more so, probably, than at any previous exposition. The world then came to realize that the greatest talent might worthily be employed even to produce work of merely temporary use. Since then more and more attention has been given to this form of decoration at each successive exposition, and now San Francisco is planning sculptural ornamentation upon a scale that promises to surpass Chicago's exquisite display.

The models herewith shown are the work of some of the foremost sculptors of the world. The works reveal great imagery, beauty and realism. Many of the reproduced groups will be of vast size, for the designs have been modeled to scale with the huge exhibit palaces.

To a wonderful degree the sculpture will idealize the story of the Panama canal. Figures of the heroic explorers of the oceans, groups symbolical of the Orient and of the Occident, colossal representations of struggle and achievement will illustrate many of the dramatic themes inseparably associated with the search for the entrance way to the Pacific and with the final building of the canal at Panama.

The statuary will be presented in a sequence which will continue from the time the visitor first enters the main exposition gates until he completes the rounds of the lofty inner courts and vast exhibit palaces. One group will naturally lead to another equally beautiful and inspiring. And in the sculptural work as a whole there will be a revelation of the spirit which has inspired the builders of the Panama canal, a suggestion that out of the toil and travail of humanity arises something finer and nobler than material achievement.

Two of the most impressive groups upon the grounds will be set in the great Court of Honor, the Court of the Sun and Stars. One of these will surmount the great Arch of the Rising Sun on the east side of the court and one will crown the Arch of the Setting Sun upon the western side. The group crowning the east arch will be designated the "Nations of the East." It has as its central figure a huge elephant. Figures of Arab warriors, Tibetan priests, camels, slaves and Egyptian and Mohammedan horsemen complete the group. The entire composition is of colossal proportions. The howdah upon the elephant will be 188 feet above the floors of the court and the greatest height of the sculpture itself will be 42 feet. The design will form a striking silhouette of Oriental character. From the floors of the court the group will loom massively against the sky line; from the hills of San Francisco and from the harbor it should prove even more effective.

On the opposite or western side of the Court of the Sun and Stars and crowning the Arch of the Setting Sun will be a huge group symbolizing western civilization.

The East and West Courts, paralleling the central court, the Court of the Sun and Stars, will carry out Oriental and Occidental themes. In the East or Court of Festivals, the mystical significance of fire and water will be reflected. In the great West Court, the Court of the Four Seasons, the munificence which nature confers upon the husbandman will be exemplified.

THIS superb group of statuary is a model of the "Nations of the East," which will surmount the Arch of the Rising Sun in the Court of Sun and Stars at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco in 1915. Reading from left to right the figures are as follows: 1, Arab Sheik; 2 and 11, Negro Servitors; 3, Mohammedan; 4, Arab Falconer; 5 (the elephant), India; 6, the Buddha; 7 and 8, Oriental Mystics; 9, Chinese Llama, 10, African; 12, Tibetan Warrior. Roth-Lentelli-Calder are the sculptors. The tallest figure in the group is forty-two feet high.

GLIMPSE OF EMPRESS EUGENIE

Aged Widow of Napoleon at Her English Home—Firm That Dammed the Nile to Pass—Suffragette Incendiaries.

London, Oct. 4.—Empress Eugenie has this year broken a custom of many years standing and, instead of boarding her yacht, the Thistle, for the Cowes regatta, and afterwards cruising in teh Mediterranean, she has spent this Summer at her home, Farnborough Hill.

This change in plans caused a rumor that the ex-empress, who has enjoyed wonderful health, had commenced to fail, but this is denied and it is stated that Eugenie, who is now in her 88th year, has been out walking in the woods that surround her home, practically every day during the Summer. Farnborough Hill, although situated within sight of the great military camp at Aldershot, is one of the quietest places in England, and the little community of exiles, which surrounds the ex-empress, lives segregated among a forest of pines.

Tomb of Napoleon III.

In the grounds are the tombs of Eugenie's husband, Naopleon III., and her son, the Prince Imperial, who was killed while fighting for the British in Africa, the bodies having been transferred from Chislehurst, the ex-empress's former residence in England, in 1888. The residence and museum adjoining contain many priceless relics including the carriages used by the emperor and empress at their marriage, and the opening of Napoleon the Third's first parliament. Everywhere are objects to remind one of the past history of this once powerful family.

The Benedictines, who look after the spiritual needs of the household and guard the tombs, have a church and priory, and are now engaged in building an abbey.

World Famous Firm.

The passing away of one of the greatest contracting firms in the world, John Aird & Company, is announced for next year. The firm which dammed the Nile and carried out other great works throughout the world, will cease to exist next September, by which time all outstanding contracts will have been completed.

The decision to go out of business has been taken by the present Sir John Aird, who succeeded his father in 1911, and inherited from him a fortune of over $5,000,000. The reason given is that, while the risks of contracting are as great as they ever were, the profits are not nearly so large as they were some twenty or thirty years ago. Great plants will be distributed and a staff of engineers and workmen, who are said to have no superiors, will be seeking new positions as a result of the action.

Like that of most big contracting firms, the history of John Aird & Company is somewhat romantic. It was started in 1848 by John Aird, a Scotish mason, who came to London from Ross-shire and after following his trade for several years, was appointed superintendent of the Phoenix Gas Company at Greenwich. There he learned the business that gave him his start, and the first big undertaking of his firm was the laying of water and gas mains for London. His son, the first baronet, who died in 1911, joined the firm in 1851, and under him the firm made great strides. They removed Crystal Palace from Hyde Park to its present site at Sydenham; built water and gas works all over the country, as well as in Berlin, Copenhagen, Russia, France, Italy, Denmark and Brazil. They built and extended railways, and constructed the Royal Albert, East and West India and Tilbury Docks on the Thames, and later the Manchester Ship Canal. The great docks at Avonmouth and Singapore were created by them, but the damming of the Nile capped all their work.

It was not easy to get this undertaking financed, the Egyptian government not being willing to take the risk. It was accomplished when the late Sir John Aird met Sir Ernest Cassel, the banker, in Egypt one day. Aird placed the plans before the banker and in two days the financial end of the undertaking was arranged and Aird was able to go to the Egyptian government with an offer to construct dams at Assouan and Assiout without even the first payment being made until the work was completed.

Girl Net-workers Strike.

The girl fish net makers of Lowestoft have gone out on strike as a protest against the introduction of men and boys at the net-making machines. The strikers claim that the boys work for less than they do and that the employers aim at driving the girls out of the trade.

Thus women have turned the tables on those who in the past have accused them of underbidding other workers. The wage paid the girls is about $3 a week while the boys are paid $2.50 a week. The owners, however, say that this wage for boys is only temporary and as soon as they learn the trade they will be paid more than the girls. As a result of the demand for nets the boys will be worked at night as the factory act will not permit of women being worked at night.

Madame Curie.

Madame Curie, the discoverer of radium, who attended the meetings of the British Association at Birmingham, spent much of her time in England with Dr. Rutherford, professor of physics, at Liverpool University. This is explained by the fact that Dr. Rutherford has been carrying on certain experiments in radio-activity from which Madame Curie expects great things. In this connection she said recently: "Dr. Rutherford is the one man living who promises to confer some estimable boon on mankind as the result of my discovery of radium. I would advise England to watch him. His work in radio-activity has surprised me. Great developments are likely to transpire shortly to which the discovery of radium was only preliminary."

Suffragette Incendiaries.

The propensity of the suffragettes to apply the torch without any apparent provocation has caused people all over England to guard their property against possible attack from the women agitators.

A typical case is the Parish Church of Brentwood, Essex. The building was neither damaged nor directly threatened, but nevertheless most adequate precautions were taken to protect it and its treasures. For months sentries chosen from among the parishoners have kept a continual watch on their church, the women taking the day watch in turns and the men the night watch. Even now the day watch is continued while other precautions have been taken to prevent a night attack. Each week a list of watchers is hung in the church, the names of about 20 or 30 of the more leisured women members of the congregation appearing on it under one or more special days. The women take half-hour turns from 9 o'clock in the morning until 6 in the evening.

RAILROAD CLAIM DEPARTMENTS.

(By R. T. Sinclair.)

Everyone is fully convinced that he has a patent right to kick and abuse every claim department with which he is forced to do business. We use the word "forced" advisedly, for the reason we believe everyone would rather receive his freight promptly in good condition and with charges correctly assessed, than to have the pleasure (?) of filing and collecting claims, but such is not possible for the reason that the business of the transportation companies is carried on by human beings, and they are all subject to err.

Furthermore, have you ever stopped to consider that it requires the service of from 15,000 to 30,000 men to operate a large railway, and did it ever occur to you that every man in this great army has his part to perform in handling the great stream of traffic pouring over a trunk line every day, and that your shipment is possibly as but a grain of sand on the sea shore, and that the slightest error on the part of one of them may cause trouble without end?

We believe a perusal of the following, and the adoption of the suggestions contained herein, will not only considerably enlighten our friends, the public in general, but will save them considerable annoyance in their dealings with freight claim departments.

Of course a number of our larger patrons, as well as some of the smaller ones, are more or less familiar with the details of handling a claim by a claim department, yet, our observations would indicate that every one is more or less apt to underestimate the value of what the public is pleased to call "railroad red tape;" for this reason we believe a brief synopsis of the general system of handling claims by a large transportation company might not be out of place. It should be borne in mind that the outline given below is general, and is varied in minor details by each individual line.

Claim departments are usually divided about as follows: Mailing bureau, record bureau, loss and damage bureau, overcharge bureau, tracing bureau, and filing bureau. Each of these divisions usually has a head clerk or chief.

When a claim first reaches the office it is handled through the mail bureau, then the recording bureau, where it is based, recorded and numbered. It is then returned to the filing bureau to be connected with its proper file and acknowleged. It is next passed to the department to which it belongs, loss and damage, or overcharge, where it is charged up to the individual clerk who will handle it.

Every letter received bearing on this particular claim must pass through practically the same route; thus it will be seen a claim must pass through several different men's hands.

Every letter or telegram written by a claim department is numbered.

These numbers are usually in several series, thus indicating to what department the correspondence belongs.

When we tell you that 3,000 to 5,000 pieces of mail are handled daily in a large claim office, you can, no doubt, appreciate the absolute necessity of system and strict attention to details.

One of the greatest complaints registered against claim departments is delay in adjusting claims. Sometimes the complaint is justifiable, but often otherwise. Often claims are filed, supported by all the documents we require and in addition a statement of our agent, with possibly a recommendation. Most people quite naturally suppose that no further investigation is necessary, and that the claim could and should be adjusted on receipt by the claim department.

Now, Mr. Business Man, let's see. Would you adjust an account, or claim against you without first verifying same against your records? We think not. Furthermore, is your business under the "eagle eye" of the United States government, and the individual government of half a dozen States; your every act subject to inspection, and is it a crime for you to rebate one of your customers, either intentionally or through error; and would you be subject to fine and imprisonment were you to pay a bill or claim you did not owe, or pay more than you did owe? Again we say, no.

Now, you do not expect more of transportation companies, or that they should be less vigilant in verifying their bills than you are, do you?

But you say we should not take so much time to consult our records, and that you could verify an account in a week or ten days. Granted. But, how many offices does your business pass through? We venture that 90 times out of a hundred it is transacted in one, and not handled by over half a dozen different men; while, on the other hand, the business of a transportation company is scattered from Maine to Florida, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Your shipment may originate in California and terminate in Florida, so you see, it will necessarily have passed through at least a dozen States and over possibly as many different railroads, besides being handled by hundreds of different men.

Every road must necessarily keep its own records, and every agency is a business within itself; much on the order of your branch house, and it is necessary that each agency retain in its files all records of the details of handling every shipment which passes through. It would be impossible to concentrate these records of details even on one road.

Last, but not least—the law demands that transportation companies verify every claim before payment.

Close observanee of the following suggestions will pay any one doing business with a claim department—big dividends.

First—When sending a claim department several papers bearing on the same subject, always securely fasten them together.

Second—When answering a letter or telegram from a claim agent, quote his full file reference or claim number.

Third—Be sure you quote files and numbers accurately and complete One figure wrong, or prefix left off, entirely destroys its usefulness.

Fourth—When writing a claim department, and you are not in possession of their file number, be sure and give full details, being sure to state plainly, and in full, what you are writing about, and information you desire.

Fifth—When writing for information on a claim, and you are not in position to quote claim number, always state when claim was filed, in whose favor, amount, nature and whether filed with the agent or the road, or direct with the claim department.

Sixth—Always sign your name the same way, and when your stationery does not show your name, be sure and write plainly, for every clerk in a claim office does not know your personal signature or how to spell your name. It is very necessary to know how it is spelled when looking up a record.

Seventh—Do not expect the claim department to keep your books for you, but always keep your claim account posted up to date. Nearly 30 per cent. of the tracers received by the claim departments are on claims already paid or otherwise closed.

Eighth—Disabuse your mind of the idea that a claim department would willfully delay settlement of your claims. The individual clerk handling your claims is too anxious to close them and get them out of his way, to do so, and, besides, such tactics is not the policy of any road of consequence. The writer knows from personal experience.

Winchester, D. P. Byers and W. H. Lambeth, of Charlotte. These visitors are from consistory No. 2 and No. 1, and those who are to take the various degrees will come from different sections of the State.

GLENN'S ADVICE EASY.

(Catawba County News.)

It was dead easy to give the advice that ex-Gov. Glenn gave to the Legislature and the mass meeting at Raleigh. He said if the railroads' proposal is right, accept it; if not right, reject it. Now, was not this a lot of wisdom and information to give? The truth of the matter is Mr. Glenn knows very little about this freight rate question and ought not to set himself up to speak upon the subject, unless he had something to say. Any child can say: If a thing is right, do it; if it is wrong, do not do it.

(Charlotte Chronicle.)

Ex-Governor Glenn elucidated the freight situation in a mere phrase: "If it is right," said he, "accept it. If it is wrong, reject." Reminds us a little of the recent saying of a distinguished psychologist, that "Either we are immoral or we are not."

FRENCHMEN SEE PRESIDENT

Poincaire Takes Journey Through His Country—France Humiliated by Constantine's Speech—Professor's American Recollections

Paris, Oct. 4.—A million Frenchmen have looked into the plain, friendly face of President Poincare during his September excursion through southwestern France. In automobiling from Paris to Bordeaux, he passed through many a town and village. He saw 120,000 troops at the autumn manoeuvers in the Toulouse country. He met some thousands of the important people of the provinces in reply to addresses of local authorities and at public dinners have deepened the impression that Poincare represents the new spirit in France the spirit of confidence, energy and action. The diction of his speeches has aroused the admiration of literary France.

"President Poincare and President Wilson are alike in one respect," remarked newspaper observer. "Whatever they say will be likely phrased; why either of them has done a thing will be explained in the best possible manner. Were Mr. Wilson a Frenchman he would be a fellow academican with Poincare."

The presidential party, which included Madame Poincare, several members of the cabinet and their wives, traveled in forty automobiles. They took intervals on dusty roads of from 300 to 400 yards apart so that the procession was often eight or ten miles long. The presence of Madame Poincare and other women brought about an innovation at official dinners in France. It was arranged that the women should also be guests and so were the wives of the provincial authorities. A white straw hat with velvet ribbons, such as are commonly worn in the Creuse, was presented to Madame Poincare at Gueret. She laughingly took off her fashionable Paris togue and put on the peasant hat. She wore it at lunch and drove away in it, the country people cheering. Four thousand persons dined with the President at Toulouse. When they drank his health, 700 bottles of champagne were emptied to fill the glasses once.

Souvenirs of America.

M. Henri Labrouse, history professor at the Bordeaux Lycee, recalls his souvenirs of America in an article appealing for certain reforms in French public instruction.

One of the things which particularly impressed M. Labrouse in America was the reproduction of the Republican National Convention of 1907 by the members of Columbia University. M. Labroue considers that such a scene would appear somewhat childish to students of French Universities on account of the differences between the French and the American temperament, but he uses it as an illustration of the immense difference between the teaching of history in France and the United States. French professors are not expected to teach their pupils history after 1875. The Frenchman therefore must pick up his knowledge of modern politics as best he can while the American boy enters manhood fully equipped to take an intelligent part in the political progress of his country.

M. Labroue has much admiration for the manner in which politics and political science are taught in American schools and colleges, and advocates the adoption of similar branches of teaching in France.

France Humiliated.

French public opinion considers France to have been humiliated by the recent speech of King Constantine of Greece, at Potsdam when, during the banquet given by the German Emperor, he ascribed the successes of the Greek troops in the Balkans to their officers' knowledge of Prussian military training.

For a number of years a French military mission, with General Eydoux at its head, has been in Greece instructing Greek troops and in consequence of this France had looked upon Greek victories as evidence of the superiority of her military science. She was, therefore, amazed to hear that the German military education of many of the Greek officers was deemed by the king to have been of more account in the victories over the Bulgarians and Turks than the efforts of her military mission.

The belief is general today that the Potsdam utterances of the Grecian king mark the decline of French influence in Greece and the beginning of a Germanophile policy which will finally attach Greece to the Triple Alliance. King Constantine is said to be personally less friendly to France than was his father, and the present queen, Sophie, was born a Hohenzollern.

King Constantine announces his intention of visiting Paris incognito, next month, when he may be able by a tactful speech to soften the painful impression created by his remarks in Germany.

Friday night contending forces as between favoring the acceptance of the railroads' proposals to reduce freight rates in the State and those against it were heard before committees of the Legislature. Many believe that the State should not accept the railroads' offer of half a loaf when a whole loaf might be obtained just as well by demanding that the State be given a water basing point and corresponding reductions all along the line. The whole matter goes over until this week.

Cadillac, Mich., is reported to be the foremost city in the country for varied and close utilization of forest products.

The cotton weighed here during the month of September this year, fell under last year's numbr. This year there were 596 bales as against 650 last year. The shortage is due to the rough rainy weather that has prevailed for the greater part of the past three weeks, making it almost impssible for the farmers to gather their crops.—Waxhaw Enterprise.

Mr. T. P. Stewart, who lives in the county, was in the city a few days ago and brought with him three nice ripe pears taken from a tree on his farm that is bearing its second crop. Now that the Federal bird law is effective all over the country, people are wondering if the price will be any lower. It was really pathetic to see the Wayne county delegation here Monday, fighting against a stock law and declaring their fondness for the cattle tick and the razor back hog. Part of Wayne is in the stock law district, but part is not, and there is a movement to put the whole county under this wise law. To get right down to brass tacks, every bit of North Carolina not already under this law should be given its protection. The ticky cow and the razor-back hog are relics of the dark ages. Let us put an end to them.—Raleigh Times.

For the first time in many a year the Legislature will have the pleasure of seeing a circus, and one of the biggest in all the world. It was somewhere about 1869, in the days of Reconstruction, when a Legislature formally adjourned to see a circus parade and attend the performance, of course taking in the menagerie. On that joyous day John Lowlow, that delightful clown, had the courtesy of the legislative floor, made a few remarks and gave passes with a liberal hand. Every legislator saw the performance. No doubt they will see that on the evening of October 9th.—Raleigh Times.

News comes that the people of Cary and Wakelon and the sections around about each are going to let no county in the State get ahead of Wake in the matter of the two farm life schools which are ordered located at those points. The clay country and the sand region will get an opportunity for very generous rivalry and it will be interesting to see which has the finest farm, East Wake or the western section of the county. These schools are going to mean a great deal. State Superintendent Joyner sees not far ahead the time when no county will be without at least one. — Raleigh Times.

Mr. E. B. Craven took a fall out of a horse trader yesterday when the got judgment against him for $200. He alleged and proved that one J. A. Dalton swapped him a worthless horse for his own good one, fraudulently concealing the defects of his horse and guaranteeing him sound in every particular. The defects complained of were not such as could be detected by the use of ordinary caution on the part of the buyer. The judgment was one that will enable the law to lay hold upon the person of Dalton, as well as upon his property, and full satisfaction for Mr. Craven is looked for.—Lexington Dispatch.

The Lexington correspondent of the Charlotte Observer, in telling of a party of Lexingtonians who went from Black Mountain to Mitchell and return, says they went part of the way on wagons and walked home and by leaving Mitchell at 8 o'clock and getting home at 2:30 established a precedent. They'd better consult Mr. Walter Sanders, of Monroe, before they lay claim to that precedent business, for he made some speed on the descent of Mitchell this Summer—and got struck with lightning, too. Desnite the lightning he made the trip from Mitchell to camp, nearly 20 miles, in about six hours.—Waxhaw Enterprise.

Shaw University, which has the honor of being the largest Baptist institution fr the negro race in this country, began its Fall term today, and it will have the usual 500 students, representing several States and also other countries and islands. Work is in progress on the theological building where there will be rooms for 75 students of that department. About a dozen years ago an African prince, who as the eldest son, would have succeeded his father as king, came to Shaw from Oxford University, England, in order to study and prepare himself to be a real worker among his people, but he died here. The students from this institution are scattered all over the world. — Raleigh Times.

N. C. Presbyterians Ready for Synod

(By Mamie Bays.)

The Presbyterians of Greensboro, and the pastor and membership of the First Presbyterian church, especially, are in readiness to extend cordial greeting to the members and visitors to the one hundreth annual session of the synod of North Carolina, which will convene in that church on Monday evening, October the sixth.

The First Presbyterian church of Greensboro is one of the largest and one of the strongest churches, numerically and financially, in the synod and the largest church building, including the Smith memorial hall, which adjoins, is ideal in its arrangement as a meeting place of a church. During the one hundred years of its history, this synod has held its annual session in Greensboro only five times in 1825, 1846. 1855. 1875 and 1904, but the organization of the synod, in 1813, was effected only six miles from Greensboro, at Alamance church.

The paster of the First Presbyterian church is Rev. Melton Clark, D. D. who has met with pronounced success during the six years of his leadership of this large congregation. In addition to his regular duties as pastor, Dr. Clark is prominently identified with special work in the interest of boys and as the result of his work and his addresses in this connection he is recognized as a leader in this work and as authority in the outlining of plans for the extension of the interest of the older boy's league

The membership of the First Presbyterian church numbers 811 and the enrollment of the Sunday School is 474. The last report of the contributions of this church to the various causes of the general assembly shows that they were as follows: To foreign missions, $6.000; to assembly's home missions, $533; to local home missions $1,075; to christian education and ministerial relief, $1,318; to Sabbath School extension and publication. $147; to Bible cause, $33. to orphans' home, $1,981; to pastor's salary. $3,000 and all incidental expenses, $7,648; and to miscellaneous causes, $70.

The location of this church is one of the most desirable in Greensboro and the general assembly was held here in 1908. There are 230 ministers in the synod of North Carolina and on account of the fact that Greensboro is easy of access from all parts of the State, and on account of the fact also that the session of the synod this year will be the centennial session, it is expected that the number of ministers and elders who constitute the membership of the body and the number of visitors will be unusually large.

If It is Thinning Out or Full of Dandruff, Use Parisian Sage at Once.

Most men, and husbands in particular, are careless regarding the care of the hair—not until it comes out by the combful do they really take notice. Then it may be too late.

If your husband's hair is getting thin; if he has dandruff or the scalp itches and burns—take immediate action; do not let him become a baldhead.

Get from any druggist or toilet counter a 50 cent bottle of Parisian Sage. Rub it well into the scalp every night. The first application will remove dandruff. When the hair stops falling and the new growth appears use every other night until the hair is thick and abundant.

Parisian Sage is a delightful and invigorating hair tonic for men, women and children. It is a scientific preparation based on a thorough knowledge of what is needed by the hair and scalp to keep them perfectly healthy and remove dandruff, stop scalp itch and falling hair. Surely try Parisian Sage. Look for the trade mark on every package—the "Girl with Auburn Hair."

The Week Locally

Brunswick Superior Court convenes Monday, Judge Rountree presiding. There are 13 jail and other criminal cases.

Fire in a brick building from which Mercer & Evans Shoe Co., had been doing business for many years, removing only the day before, damaged the property to the extent of about $50 Friday night.

The city graded schools open Monday and the past week has been devoted by superintendent and teachers in getting everything in readiness for the record-breaking attendance that is expected this season.

The third cargo of cotton this season went out Tuesday night when the British steamer Kylestrome carried 9,322 bales valued at $653,000. Several other steamers are in port loading at the compress of Alex. Sprunt & Son.

The new union station will be thrown open to the public on Monday. It is one of the handsomest structures of its kind in the South and will also provide additional room needed for the Atlantic Coast Line general offices.

The Chamber of Commerce, at a largely attended meeting Monday, adopted resolutions strongly opposing the acceptance of the rate proposal of the railroads, and forwarded them to the representatives of the county in Raleigh.

Reports through Wilmington indicate that the cotton crop is going to be short throughout the Carolinas and Georgia. Receipts are well up with last year at Wilmington, though the crop appears to have been marketed faster through Charleston.

The New Hanover Just Freight Rate Association adopted resolutions Tuesday against acceptance of the railroads' offer and declared for equal treatment of all sections of the State, the proposed agreement being deemed discriminative against Eastern North Carolina.

Wilmington has learned with pleasure of the elevation of Col. D. C. Kingman, of Savannah, to be chief of engineers of the United States army. Col. Kingman has been in charge of this division for a number of years and is interested in Southern ports and their development.

The Carolina Yacht Club had its annual frolic on the beach Friday night, features of which were dancing, refreshments and presentation of the Jones-Walters trophy to Capt. S. G. MacMillan and the club pitcher to Capt. W. M. Peck for winning greatest number of points in the series of races during the Summer.

The City of Fayetteville, a steamer belonging to the Merchants & Farmers' Steamboat Co., sank at the wharf at the compress Monday about 3 A. M., with 236 bales of cotton on board. It is supposed that the boat broke in two when the tide went out, leaving the middle resting on some obstruction, and the machinery in one end and cotton in the other settling each end. She is valued at $15,000.

The city has been much interested in the reported arrest in New York of Mrs. Elizabeth Van B. Nichols, on charge of embezzling some $30,000 from Mrs. Helene D. LaMassena, of Philadelphia, the indictment having been brought by the New Hanover grandjury, but Tuesday it turned out that the woman arrested was not Mrs. Nichols, but a Mrs. Maas, who turned around and sued Mrs. LeMassena for $50,000 damages for false arrest.

Moses' Cry for Help.
(The Story.)

One of the proverbial after-sermon grumbles was, "Why does the minister always talk about those old Jews? What have we to do with them?" The answer might have been, "Much every way!" Although they lived so long ago and so far away, the Hebrews were human beings—just men and women—with hopes, fear, and frailties like our own. Their story is a cross-section of life. It is what life is in every age and everywhere. In this instance the story is peculiarly exemplary, instructive, corrective, and inspirational. To any individual, or mass of such, seeking an ideal—ethical, social, or spiritual—this pilgrim and pillar-led march is suggestive and helpful in the last degree. In point of fact, it is just a pictorial representation of humanity's age-long quest of the "ultimate good."

No progress, either of the individual or the mass, is unbroken by moral lapses, more or less shameful. How true to nature, in this instance, the stroke which represents the present ills of Israel as unbearable and magnifies the small comforts of Egypt into delicious luxuries! Pharaoh's bill-of-fare included meat, fish, cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions and garlic. Jehovah's just mentions manna. The complainers did not have sense enough to consider which menu was the better suited to the physical conditions that then maintained and, therefore, was most sanitary. They all had to matriculate in the expensive School of Experience. Fools will learn in no other. With the flesh for which they "lusted" still between their teeth, multitudes of them died. To picture an angry God as smiting the people to death is intolerably unworthy. God did not do it at all, except through the natural operation of those laws which are absolutely impartial. The soul that sins against these laws does today by their natural operation.

The proverbial lonesomeness of moral leadership has illustration in Moses' experience. He felt that he was bearing all the people alone. And he was! Hear his pathetic cry to God: "Wherefore hast thou afflicted thy servant, and wherefore have I not found favor in thy sight, that thou layest the burden of all this people upon me? Have I conceived all this people? Have I begotten them, that Thou shouldst say, Carry them in thy bosom as a nursing father beareth a sucking child unto the land which Thou swearest unto their fathers?"

The condition has at length become insufferable, but not before the psychological hour in which a partition of responsibility can be safely made. A moment earlier it would have been impossible. But 70 men can now be found who, in addition to native executive ability, share the vision and spirit of Moses to such a degree as to make them serviceable. There was no arbitrary transference of Moses' spirit. It was already upon them. The call to service only quickened it and made the 70 conscious of its possession.

The Teachers' Lantern.

The germ cells of elaborate rituals are found in Israel's simple matin and vesper prayers in the wilderness. At the opening of the day, before the march began, Israel turned his face toward God and with full voice chanted, "Rise up, Lord, and let thine enemies be scattered, and let them that hate Thee flee before Thee!" When they day was done and the hour of repose was at hand, Israel turned his face once more toward God and cried, "Return, O Lord, unto the many thousands of Israel!"

The splendid self-abasement and disinterestedness of Moses has emphatic illustration in this instance. It was reported to him that certain men who had failed to file an appearance were yet prophesying. Joshua in his loyal enthusiasm cried, "Silence them!" But Moses' impartial reply was, "Would God that all the Lord's people were prophets!"

What Israel wanted was quails. That was not what they needed. The result was disaster—not God's drastic punishment, but physiological result of climate and diet.

Natural law is often sharp and sudden in its reprisals. Here is mercy, not vengeance. Its operation is exemplary—warning—deterrent.

The phenomenon of quails is not wanting in current confirmatory parallels. Quails, spent by their long passage over the Akaba arm of the Red Sea, are picked up by the caravans of today. Reputable explorers have noted the passage of birds in such numbers as to darken the sky and make a roar like that of many waters.

No finer example of skill in the use of motives can be found than in Moses' persuasion of his brother-in-law to accompany him to Canaan. His first appeal, that of personal advantage to Hobad, failed. But, nothing daunted, he followed it up with another, "Hobad could be of advantage to others." It is a sure token of the moral nobility of the Cushite that this won him, while the appeal on the ground of personal advantage failed. He knew the wilderness so intimately that he could be eyes to the pilgrim host, saving them from many a misery and adding incalculably to their comforts.

(Consecration Meeting.)

Texts of this chapter stick in memory like arrows in a target. If the injunction of the first verse was obeyed there would be an end of current labor troubles, which are a menace to our economic, if not our very National life itself. In the language of today it reads: "Employers, give to your employes that which is just and equal in the sight of heaven!" "Employes, be content with that which is just and equal!" Obedience to that rule would strike "the strike" dead, and no one would be happier than the honest striker himself.

So the boys of Pawling served their guests themselves, and they haven't had a black waiter there since.

ANENT ADVERTISING.

(By T. W. Chambliss.)

Business success is a problem that is driving the sleep from many wearied eyes in this busy age. Method and machinery leading toward success is the dominant dream of the larger number of the men in the business world.

* * *

Business men deal with five elements, men, machinery, material, money, and merchandise. It is comparatively easy to secure four of these elements, the machinery, the material, the money, and the merchandise.

* * *

Men—the all important element—it is a big task to get the needed men. Men are not so certain a quantity as either of the others. A machine will do a known quantity of work for a known period of time. A man will do such work as he is willing and capable of doing. The machine is capable and always willing. The man may be capable but not always willing Men are the important factors in business—the right sort of men.

* * *

There is a distinct object in business. In the olden days, the object was production, the methods of manufacture were crude. The market was ready and the effort was to reach higher perfection in manufacture. Now-a-days the object of business is that of distribution. The getting things where they should be.

There are two great factors in distribution—the goal of business success. They are salesmanship and advertising.

* * *

The problem before the business men today is the problem of distribution. It is much easier to buy goods than it is to sell them. It is even easier to make goods than it is to sell the manufactured product. Any man with money can buy goods and many men can buy without money—and manufacture goods but it does not follow that any man can run out and sell goods.

* * *

It is folly for a man to say that he does not believe in advertising. Everyone is an advertiser whether he wants to be or not. The very manner, the clothes, the appearance, the speech, everything that we do or say advertise us and we cannot deny it.

Advantageous advertising is teaching. In order to profitably advertise it is necessary that two truths be understood. There must be something to advertise and certain principles followed in advertising. Successful advertisement depends on the article advertised and the advertisement of the article. Poorly prepared advertisements and poorly purchased property will certainly spell business failure. Carefully selected material and carefully prepared advertising will result in business success.

Successful advertising is teaching. Teaching people to believe in you and your goods.

* * *

The other day a man remarked that his business was so well established that he did not need to advertise it. That man reminds you of a youngster wearing blue goggles and winking at a passing Maiden. He knows that he is winking but the passing maiden does not. Advertising is salesmanship and salesmanship is advertising. Every "ad" in the Star is a salesman and every salesman in the store of a Wilmington merchant is an "ad" there are classes and classes of "ads." Some are paying dividends and some are eating up the profits. Advertising is salesmanship plus publicity. Salesmanship is advertising plus the sale.

* * *

It is easy to open up a store—but even with a well arranged store room and well arranged stock of merchandise it does not follow that people will come in and buy the goods. The fact is that the people are not running after the man and his goods nowadays. The people are busy trying to keep out of the way of the live, energetic man who is continually after them—striving to sell them.

* * *

Advertising creates the atmosphere and the salesman takes the order. It is a combination. The advertisement attracts the customer and the salesman concludes the transaction. It is like a chemical combination. Glycerine in itself is perfectly harmless, but combined with certain chemicals form one of the most powerful explosions known. The same is true of salesmanship and advertising. it takes something to set them off, but it is worth while. The close relationship between advertising and salesmanship is noticeable when you get down to the bedrock of business and when you find out what is the foundation of all business.

* * *

Advertising and publicity are the biggest builders of confidence known to the business man. Big advertising looks like sales; it makes the public familiar with the seller of the goods and creates confidence in the goods. Some people mistake advertising for merit. Advertising never adds one cent to the value of the article advertised. Advertising merely tells the people of the value of the goods—it does not create value. Goods must have merit in themselves if they are to be sold, and they must have merit to stay sold. By the way, a sale does not end with the making of it now-a-days—the sale never ends so long as the purchaser is using the article sold.

Wonderful Blood Remedy That Works in the Tissues

The Very Latest Theory About How and Why the Blood is Disordered.

S. S. S. Means Pure Blood Which Insures Long Life and Health.

The great experts in Chemistry and Physiology now declare what has all along been contended by the Swift Laboratory that the germs of blood disorders find lodgment in the interstices of the tissues.

And herein is where S. S. S. goes to work rapidly, effectively and with wonderfully noticeable results.

This famous blood purifier contains medicinal components just as vital and essential to healthy blood as the nutritive elements of wheat, roast beef, and fats and the sugars that make up our daily ration.

As a matter of fact there is one ingredient in S. S. S. which serves the active purpose of stimulating each cellular part of the body to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. That is why it regenerates the blood supply; why it has such a tremendous influence in overcoming eczema, rash, pimples, and all skin afflictions.

And in regenerating the tissues S. S. S. has a rapid and positive antidotal effect upon all those irritating influences that cause rheumatism, sore throat, weak eyes, loss of weight, thin pale cheeks, and that weariness of muscle and nerve that is generally experienced, by all sufferers with poisoned blood.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store, and in a few days you will not only feel bright, and energetic, but you will be the picture of new life.

S. S. S. is prepared only in the laboratory of the Swift Specific Co., 201 Swift Bldg, Atlanta, Ga. Who maintain a very efficient Medical Department, where all who have any blood disorder of a stubborn nature may write freely for advice.

S. S. S. is sold everywhere by all drug stores.

Beware of all attempts to sell you something "Just as good." Insist upon S. S. S.

BOMBITA LEAVES BULL RING

Famous Spanish Toreador Will Kill His Last Bull October 19th

Madrid, Oct. 4—Bombita, the most famous toreador in Spain, has announced his retirement from the bull-ring. He will kill his last bull October 19, for the benefit of the Bull Fighters Pawn Shop, an institution of which he is the rounder. Bombita made his own fortune, estimated at $600,000, entirely from the ring and has besides given away great sums in benevolences.

Bombita's real name is Ricardo Torres. He was a typesetter as a youth, but soon left this calling to follow his two elder brothers into the arena. Few toreadors have acquired such a great reputation as Bombita. His popularity in Spain is universal. He is chiefly famous for the grace of his thrust and for a reckless courage in giving the bull a chance. He has been gored thirty-eight times, always of course slightly, and it has been possible for him to save himself by his acrobatic skill even when on the horns of the bull. His smile is known from the boulevards of Paris to the Puerta del Sol, and is one of the things about him most often talked of. During his most reckless feats Bombita smiles.

The reason for Bombita's retirement are not known. Some of his friends aver that he is giving up his career for the sake of a young girl of Barcelona whom he is about to marry.

Bombita's departure from the ring coincides with the return to it of another famous toreador, Mazzantini, who gave up the calling for politics eight years ago. During these eight years Mazzantini has been a municipal councillor of Madrid, assistant deputy mayor of Madrid and a General Councillor. He recently ran for Parliament and just failed of election.

He has suddenly felt the call of his former profession and intends to return to it.
